Pacific Liner Sinking

Ss. NIAGARA

The Globe Wireless Marine Station at San Francisco said today the steamship Niagara of the Canadian-Australasian Line wirelessed she was sinking in the Tasman sea, between New Zealand and Australia.

An explosion in No. 2 hold disabled the engines, the distress message said, and the ship was full of water and going down by the head.

After the first SOS, another message was sent saying an order had been given to abandon ship.

The message to Globe wireless was from the liner President Cleveland, which said the Auckland radio had relayed the distress call at 8.30 a.m., P.S.T.

This message said: "Ss. Niagara engines disabled; explosion in No. 2 hold. Full of water. Vessel going down by head. Vessel headed toward Hen and Chickens (a group of islands)."

Subsequently the Auckland radio said the master of the Niagara had given the order to abandon ship.

The President Cleveland radioed she heard the steamer West Harshaw answer the SOS, giving her position at lat. 34.12 south, lon. 166.16 east.

The Cleveland was 1,500 miles from Honolulu last night, en route from Kobe.

According to information received at the C.P.R., the Niagara left Sydney last Thursday for Victoria and was due in Auckland yesterday.

One of the best-known ships on the Pacific, the Niagara has been calling at Victoria for 27 years. She made her maiden voyage in 1913, having been launched some months previously at the John Brown shipyards on the Clyde. She had steamed hundreds of thousands of miles between Victoria, Honolulu, Suva, Auckland and Sydney, and has carried thousands of passengers.

Seldom in all those years had she been in trouble. In the summer of 1933 she was in collision with the British freighter King Edgar in dense fog off Race Rocks and both spent some weeks here undergoing repairs.

Capt. Wm. Martin was regular master of the Niagara and was believed in command when the explosion occurred.

Niagara had a registered tonnage of 13,415 tons, with length of 524 feet, beam of 66 feet, depth of 34 feet.

Manpower Registration Ordered for Canada

OTTAWA (CP)—Vital steps to meet the Empire's war emergency announced to the House of Commons his afternoon by Prime Minister Mackenzie King were:

Mobilization of all human and material resources of Canada.

National registration of manpower.

Landing of the first contingent of Canadian troops in Iceland.

Establishment of a new department of government, the Department of National War Services.

Enlargement of the Dominion cabinet, to be announced later this week.

Speed Required, Says Premier

The Prime Minister asked Parliament to rush through all stages today the government bill to authorize mobilization of all resources and manpower in Canada. He said the bill was similar to the one passed recently in the United Kingdom.

PASSES QUICKLY

The resolution, preliminary to the bill, was passed within five minutes and the bill based upon it introduced and given first reading.

The Prime Minister said the bill was being printed and would be distributed shortly, after which he would appreciate it if the House would enable third reading to be given today.

He recalled that when a similar bill was introduced in the British Parliament it was put through all stages in one day.

T. C. Douglas, C.C.F., Weyburn, said the British bill did not involve conscription of manpower, that having already been effected.

So far as manpower was concerned, the compulsory mobilization will not apply to service overseas. That will continue on a voluntary basis. It will enable the government to make the most efficient use of manpower to meet the needs of modern machine warfare.

"Mobilization of our resources, however, will not be confined to requiring the services of men and women," said Mr. King. "The government will have power under the provisions of the bill equally to call property and wealth, material resources and industry to the defence of Canada."

PRAISES FRANCE

Mr. King had nothing but the warmest praise of the heroism of the French army and people in their battle against overpowering odds and expressed confidence France would rise again, adding the "legions of freedom will yet march again to the strains of the Marsellaise."

Opposition Leader Thanked

These sentiments were echoed by Conservative leader Hanson, to whom Mr. King directed thanks for his co-operation in discussing the proposed measures prior to their announcement.

No one could tell what sorrows and trials might yet come to Canada in common with the other British nations in the continuance of the fight, he said, but he was confident the Canadian people would face them with courage and determination.

The fate of the French navy and air force was not clear as yet, Mr. King told the House. It was apparent, however, French resistance of the Nazi invaders on land must soon come to an end.

CANADA'S ALSO

The decision to "fight on" announced today by Prime Minister Winston Churchill in London was "not only Britain's decision, but Canada's," the Prime Minister said.

The suggestion Britain and France become the Canada of Europe must strike the imagination of the people of this country.

"Whatever might be the fate of France," Mr. King said, "Britain will fight on. That is not only the decision of Britain but the decision of Canada as well."

There would be no criticism of the move taken by France, Mr. King said.

The Prime Minister said the endurance and fortitude of French troops had added stories to the French name. If they had surrendered to the inevitable, no soldiers in the world could have faced such overwhelming odds for long.

France would again rise from that blood-stained soil. Her suffering was Canada's suffering. Canada's dead were buried in French soil, now a part of Canada.

"In a very real sense, she is ours and we are hers," he said.

"The legions of freedom will yet march again through the Arc de Triomphe to the strains of the Marsellaise."

The new situation called for new examination as to what would be required of Canada.

This situation had brought the war much nearer Canada. Co-operation with the United Kingdom in its defence and in home defence had been intensified in recent weeks.

Authorization was issued over the week-end for recruitment of 40,000 men in addition to the 30,000 now being mobilized, Hon. C. G. Power, Acting Defence Minister, told the House. Nonpermanent active militia units would be mobilized to full strength.

Every able-bodied man in Canada under the age of 45 will have the opportunity and "the obligation" to offer himself for service in the militia, Mr. Power said.

Mr. Power informed the House Canada at present had 113,539 men under arms, divided as follows: Overseas 26,087; in Canada, army 64,656, navy 7,256, air force 15,594.

Hanson Urges Union Cabinet

Conservative leader Hanson, speaking also in the House this afternoon demanded formation of a national government "so that Canada may present a common front to the enemy."

He said that if the government would not act on his plea for a "truly national government," he would put it up to public opinion.

All parties had to suffer and perhaps die to win the war, and they should have a say in prosecution of the war.

"Dictators fade away; the British Empire never dies."

British Labor Firm

QUEEN ELIZABETH READY TO SAIL

NEW YORK—The 85,000-ton British liner Queen Elizabeth, brought here for safekeeping, is sailing for an unannounced destination, it was learned from an authoritative source.

This reported move was learned a few hours after departure of the French liner Pasteur, reportedly with a full load of munitions and ordnance.

It was said that the Elizabeth, which took on oil yesterday, would sail without cargo.

JAPAN EYES INDO-CHINA

TOKYO (AP)—The Japanese government is "seriously concerned" in regard to the future of French Indo-China, which has been extensively discussed in cabinet meetings, Domei (Japanese news agency) said today.

The agency reported that Indo-China is assuming ever-increasing importance in all Japanese political discussions

Opinion is divided concerning developments in Europe. There still is a considerable body of public opinion sympathetic with the Allies in spite of Japan's close official ties in recent years with the German-Italian axis.

Britain Braced On All Fronts Says Churchill

By J. F. SANDERSON

LONDON (CP) — Britain is ready on land, in the air and on the sea for the "battle of Britain" which is about to start and on the result of which depends the future of civilization the world over, Prime Minister Churchill declared in the House of Commons today.

Like a company director addressing a board meeting, Mr. Churchill drew on his great military experience to assess in a cold, factual way the dangers facing this country, the probabilities of eventual victory, and gave his studied judgment that Germany would be crushed in the end.

"Hitler knows," Mr. Churchill said, "that he will have to break us on this island or lose the war.

"If we can stand up to him, all Europe may be free and the life of the world may move forward into a broad, sunlit upland.

"If we fail, then the whole world, including the United States and all we have known and cared for, will sink into the abyss of a new Dark Age made more sinister and perhaps more prolonged by the lights of perverted science.

"Let us therefore so brace ourselves to our duty and so bear ourselves that if the British Empire lasts for 1,000 years men will say: 'This was their finest hour'."

Mr. Churchill emphasized the French had not stopped fighting and that it was not yet certain they would capitulate.

"The French government," he declared, "will be casting away their future if they do not continue the war in accordance with their treaty obligations, from which we have not felt able to relieve them."

(See text of Mr. Churchill's speech on Page 2.)

ON THE AIR

The Prime Minister followed his afternoon Commons address with a radio broadcast to the nation tonight. (It was carried to Canada and the United States and was heard in Victoria.)

Britain's position in this war was described by Mr. Churchill as "very much less critical" than it was toward the close of the last war.

He said that the "disastrous military event" in France "had not come to me with any surprise."

He repeated what he had told the Commons of the numbers of British troops brought back safely to England from France and the number under arms in Britain and said large numbers more would be called up for duty. Those not called up, he added, would "serve their country best" by continuing their normal pursuits.

"The invasion of Great Britain at this time would require the transportation of hostile armies on a very large scale," he continued.

The enemy, he said, was inclined to forget that Britain had a navy to protect itself.

He said Germany now had only "two ships worth speaking of," compared with the proportion of 10 ships to Britain's 16 at the start of the World War.

His broadcast followed to a large extent his address to the Commons earlier today.

Hitler, Duce Set Terms To Fix Future of France

MUNICH (AP)—Hitler and Mussolini agreed tonight on the terms which they propose to offer France. The dictators left Munich immediately after conclusion of their conference.

Mussolini and Foreign Minister Count Ciano of Italy had arrived in Munich at 3 p.m. (5 a.m., P.S.T.). An hour later they sat down at a conference table with Hitler, who had arrived shortly after noon.

Hundreds of church bells rang as Hitler reached this Bavarian city, where National Socialism was born in a beer cellar.

NO HALF WAY

BERLIN (AP) — Authorized German sources said today France must either accept or reject the peace terms of the axis powers before they are made known to the world.

Nothing will be published "prematurely" concerning the peace price asked of France, it was said.

These circles said they were convinced that Premier Petain's final word on the proposals must be known before anything is made public here.

(As all the world watched the peace discussions, wondering about the variety of problems involved, The Times of London listed the disposition of the French navy as the "most crucial" of all. Also, The Times asked whether French suomission would affect France alone or her empire as well, and whether a surrender of the empire would be enforced.

Nazis Say British Have French Ships

(German sources in Berlin expressed belief Britain already had "spirited off" much of the French fleet in anticipation of French surrender, while the Bordeaux correspondent of the Daily Mail of London reported the French fleet had had a major engagement with the Italian fleet. It was not stated when or where the clash occurred but it said the Italians were understood to have suffered heavy losses.)

(Berlin dispatches said the axis powers would impose "hard" terms on France. From Les Verriers, Switzerland, it was reported that most Frenchmen in Switzerland expected German demands would permit an "honorable" peace, but they were apprehensive regarding possible Italian demands for Corsica, Savoy and Nice. They said these would be considered "dishonorable" and that the French might choose to fight on rather than submit.)

French Forces Continue to Battle

BORDEAUX, France (AP) — Marshal Henri Philippe Petain ordered all French soldiers and sailors on land, sea and in the air tonight to keep on fighting—even while he awaited Adolf Hitler's reply to his plea for an honorable peace.

Peace negotiations had not even begun, the 84-year-old premier told his men.

"The duty of all is to continue resistance," he said.

The order to continue resistance was made after reports were received German troops were raising the white flag to be able to advance without fighting. The Germans apparently intended to make French troops believe an armistice already was in effect.

Petain's office, receiving reports of such incidents, declared "all French and Allied combatants on land and sea and in the air are notified no armistice and no suspension of fighting have occurred." The announcement added:

"Negotiations have been only planned and they have not commenced."

Up to early afternoon the regular morning communique on military operations had not been issued.

The cabinet met for two hours. Afterwards nothing was divulged.

Papal Spokesman In Contact With Italy

The French disclosed Valerio Valeri, the papal nuncio, had been in communication with Italy on France's behalf with the aim of halting the French-Italian war.

French overtures to Germany were being relayed through the Spanish ambassador to France and the Madrid government.

France, declaring her navy and her air force "intact," insisted her peace terms with Germany and Italy be "honorable."

The Germans were moving still deeper into France on virtually all fronts, but the French army still resisted, especially at Orleans, 70 miles south of Paris, and in the region of La Charite sur Loire, a full 120 miles southeast of the capital.

At both these places, on the Loire River, fighting was "violent," according to last night's communique of the French high command.

Nevertheless French military spokesmen acknowledged the end was at hand—that the front was disorganized and the Germans had split the French forces into four ribbons.

VALLORBE, Switzerland (AP) —The French dynamited a four-mile long railroad tunnel under Gold mountain in the Jura Mountains, close to the Swiss Border, today. The tunnel was used normally by the trans-European express train.

Are These Hitler's Terms?

ROME—Terms of the armistice Hitler and Mussolini are drawing up today in Munich, it was stated authoritatively, will provide for military occupation of France and French possessions by Italo-German forces.

Germany, Italy, Spain and possibly Japan and Belgium will take part of the French Empire, it was reported reliably.

On the basis of authoritative information here, it was believed this disposition would be made of France—helpless and in no position to resist axis terms:

1. Germany to receive Alsace and Lorraine and a generous share of French colonial possessions.

2. Italy to receive Nice and Savoy, a part of Algeria, Corsica, French Somaliland (Djibouti) and other parts of the French Empire in Africa.

3. Spain to receive a part of French Morocco and possibly part of the Basque country, now divided between France and Spain.

4. Japan to receive certain French possessions in the Far East and the Pacific, notably French Indo-China.

5. Belgium to receive certain channel ports, providing Belgium concludes a close military and political alliance with Germany.

It also was reported here that the Balkans would be discussed by Mussolini and Hitler and one source said that Rumania was ready to cede Bessarabia to Russia to guarantee the preservation of peace in southeastern Europe.

No Mail to Italy

OTTAWA (CP) — The Post Office Department has announced suspension of all mail services to Italy, its colonies and places under control.

Movement to Canada

LONDON (CP) — Geoffrey Shakespeare, Under-Secretary for the Dominions, said in the House of Commons today that a statement will be made tomorrow on the evacuation of mothers and children to Canada and Australia.

Rumor Lloyd George May Join Cabinet

LONDON (CP) — The News Chronicle today asserted there was "a growing feeling at Westminster" that David Lloyd George, first Great War premier, might be invited to join the Churchill cabinet.

The Daily Express predicted Hitler would "try to starve England by closing the Straits of Dover, sealing up our east coast from bases in Norway and bombing our ports," but it expressed confidence any attempt at invasion could be repelled.

"We will reply," the Express said, "by closing the Mediterranean and blockading the whole west coast of Europe."

It predicted as the British blockade tightens, Hitler will "look more and more enviously at the wheat lands of Russia," and added:

"This summer we have the chance of an alliance with Russia based on common self interest against a common peril."

Canadian Troops Land in Iceland

OTTAWA (CP) — The first contingent of the Canadian Expeditionary Force has landed in Iceland, Prime Minister Mackenzie King announced in the House of Commons this afternoon.

The Prime Minister also announced Canadian armed forces were now stationed in Newfoundland.

The house had already been informed, he said, of Canadian troops in the West Indies, relieving British troops on garrison duty.

These are in addition to the Canadian forces in the United Kingdom.

Near East Leaders Continue to Fight

LONDON (CP) — French sources in London today said they considered it "probable" that General Albert Nogues, commanding France's North African army, and General Mittelhauser, commanding the French army in the Near East, had decided to continue fighting.

These sources said they had no direct communication with the Bordeaux government and therefore were unable to confirm or deny reports that French leaders had decided to continue the war, with the government established in England and the air force and navy operating from British bases.

(Mittelhauser's command, based in Syria, has been estimated at more than 200,000 men. No estimates have been available on Nogues' command.)

U.S. May Mobilize

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Roosevelt asserted today he believed the United States undoubtedly would come to some form of government service for every boy in the land though it might not be military service in the strict sense of the word.

The service would bring in youths regardless of what class of life they came from, he told his press conference.

Asked when that would be, he said he was studying the question.

Riots in Riga

STOCKHOLM (AP)—About a score of civilians and a policeman were killed or injured in a riot attending the entrance of Soviet troops into Riga, the Stockholm Aftonbladet reported today in a dispatch from the Latvian capital. The newspaper said Riga youths, celebrating the arrival of the Russian troops, clashed with the police.

'We Are Ready to Blast Invader'—Churchill

LONDON (AP) — The text of Prime Minister Churchill's report today to the House of Commons follows:

"I spoke the other day of the colossal military disaster which occurred when the French high command failed to withdraw the northern armies from Belgium at a moment when they knew that the French front was decisively broken at Sedan and on the Meuse.

"This delay entailed the loss of 15 or 16 French divisions and threw out of action the whole of the British Expeditionary Force.

"Our army were indeed rescued by the British navy from Dunkerque, but only with the loss of all their cannon, vehicles and modern equipment. This loss inevitably took some weeks to repair and in the first two of these weeks the battle in France had been lost.

When we consider the heroic resistance made by the French army against heavy odds in this battle, and the enormous loss inflicted upon the enemy and the evident exhaustion of the enemy, it might well be thought that these 25 divisions of the best troops — best trained and equipped — might have turned the scales.

However, Gen. Weygand had to fight without them.

3 British Divisions Fought in Battle

Only three British divisions, or their equivalent, were able to stand in the line with their French comrades. We sent every man we could to France, as fast as we could re-equip and transport their formations.

I am not reciting these facts for the purpose of recrimination. That I judge to be utterly futile and even harmful. We cannot afford it.

I recite them in order to explain why it was we did not have, as we could have had, between 12 and 14 British divisions fighting in the line in this battle instead of only three. Now I put this all aside."

I put it on the shelf from which the historians may select their documents in order to tell their story. We have to think of the future and not of the past. This also applies in a small way to our own affairs at home.

There are many who wish to hold an inquest upon the conduct of the government and of Parliament during the years which led up to this catastrophe. They wish to indict those who were responsible for the guidance of our affairs.

Look to Future, Leader Advises

This also would be a foolish and pernicious process. There are too many in it. Let each man search his conscience and search his speeches, as I frequently search mine. Of this I am quite sure, that if we open a quarrel between the past and the present we shall find that we have lost the future.

Therefore, I cannot accept the drawing of any distinctions between members of the present government which was formed in a moment of crisis in order to unite members of all parties and all sections of opinion.

It has received the almost unanimous support of both Houses of Parliament and its members are going to stand together and, subject to the authority of the House of Commons, we are going to govern the country and fight the war.

It is absolutely necessary at a time like that that every minister who tries each day to do his duty shall be respected and their subordinates must know that their chiefs are not threatened men who are here today and gone tomorrow.

Brief Debate Conserves Powers

Their directions must be punctually and effectively given. Without this concentrated power we cannot do what lies before us. I do not think it would be very advantageous for the House to prolong this debate this afternoon under the conditions of a public sitting.

We are to have a secret session on Thursday that would be a better opportunity for many earnest expressions of opinion which may be desired for the House to discuss our vital matters without having everything read the next morning by our dangerous foe.

The military events which have happened in France during the last fortnight have not come to me with any sense of surprise; indeed, I indicated a fortnight ago, as clearly as I could to the House, that the worst possibilities were open and I made it perfectly clear that, whatever happened in France, it would make no difference to the resolve of Britain and the British Empire to fight on, if necessary for years, and if necessary alone.

7 Out of 8 Soldiers Brought Home

During the last few days we have successfully brought off the great majority of the troops which were on the lines of communication in France. A very large number, scores of thousands, and seven-eighths of all the troops we have sent to France since the beginning of war, about 350,000 out of 400,000 men, are safely back in this country.

Others are still fighting with the French, and fighting with considerable success.

We have also brought back a great mass of stores, rifles and munitions of all kinds which had accumulated in France during the last nine months. We have therefore in this island today a very large and powerful military force. This includes all our best-trained and finest troops, including scores of thousands of those who have already measured their quality against the Germans and found themselves at no disadvantage.

We have under arms at the present time in this island over 1,250,000 men. Behind these we have the local defence volunteers, numbering 500,000, only a portion of whom, however, are armed with rifles or other firearms.

We have incorporated into our defence forces a mass of weapons and we expect very large additions to these weapons in the near future. In preparation, we intend to call up, drill and train, further large numbers at once.

Those who are not called up or who are employed on the vast business of munitions production, in all its branches serve their country best by remaining at their ordinary work until they are required.

"It is not yet certain that military resistance by France will come to an end. . . .

"The Battle of France is over and the Battle of Britain is about to begin."

Canadian Force Prepared to Fight

We also have the Dominion armies here. The Canadians had actually landed in France, but have now been safely withdrawn, much disappointed, and are here with all their artillery and equipment. These very high class forces from the Dominions will now take part in the defence of their Mother Country.

Lest the account which I have given of these large forces should raise the question why they did not take part in the great battle in France, I must make it clear that apart from the divisions training at home, only 12 divisions were equipped to fight on a scale which justified their being sent abroad.

This was fully up to the number that the French had led to expect would be available in France at the ninth month of the war. The rest of our forces at home will steadily increase.

Thus, the invasion of Great Britain at this time would require the transport across the sea of hostile armies on a very large scale and after they had been so transported, they would have to be continually maintained with all the immense mass of munitions and supplies which are required for continuous battle, as continuous battle it would be. Now here is where we come to the navy.

Naval Forces Always Ready

After all, we have a navy. Some people seem to forget it. We must remind them. For more than 30 years I have been concerned in discussions about the possibility of an overseas invasion and I took the responsibility on behalf of the Admiralty at the beginning of the last war of allowing all the regular troops to be sent out of the country although our territorials had only just been called up and were quite untried.

Therefore, these islands for several months were denuded of fighting forces, but the Admiralty had confidence in the defence by the navy, although at the time the Germans had a magnificent battle fleet in the proportion of 10 to 16 and even though they were capable of fighting a general engagement any day, whereas now they have only a couple of heavy ships worth speaking of.

We are also told that the Italian navy is coming to gain sea superiority in these waters. If that is seriously intended, I can only say we shall be delighted to offer Mussolini free, safeguarded passage through the Straits of Gibraltar in order that he may play the part which he desires to do.

British Curious About Italy's Quality

There is general curiosity in the British fleet to find out whether the Italians are up to the level they were in the last war or whether they have fallen off.

Therefore, it seems to me that as far as seaborne invasion on a great scale is concerned, we are far more capable of meeting it than we were at many periods in the last war and during the early months of this war before our troops were trained and while the British Expeditionary Force was abroad.

The navy was never intended to prevent the raids of bodies of 5 or 10 thousand men flung across and thrown suddenly ashore at several points on the coast some dark night or foggy morning.

The efficacy of sea power, especially under modern conditions, depends upon the invading force being of a large size and, if it is of a large size, the navy has something they can find and, as it were, bite on.

250 Ships Needed For 5 Divisions

Now we must remember that even five divisions, even lightly equipped, would require 200 to 250 ships, and, with modern air reconnaissance and photography, it would not be easy to collect such an armada and marshal it across the seas without any powerful naval force to escort it with any possibility that it could not be intercepted long before it reached the coast and the men all drowned in the sea, or, at the worst, blown to pieces with their equipment when they were trying to land.

We have also a great system of minefields, recently reinforced, through which we alone know the channel. If the enemy tries to sweep a channel through with minesweepers it will be the task of the navy to destroy these minesweepers and any other force employed to protect them. There ought to be no difficulty about this owing to our superiority at sea.

GERMAN CLAIMS

BERLIN (AP)—Text of the German high command's communique follows:

"The military collapse of France is swiftly progressing under the pressure of our relentless pursuit.

(All French soldiers and sailors on land, sea and in the air were ordered by Premier Petain tonight to keep on fighting. He was awaiting Hitler's reply to his appeal for an honorable peace.)

"The Orne River has been crossed at several points between Caen and Le Mans. The Loire upstream from Orleans as far as Nevers and southeast from there has been reached.

"As previously reported in a special announcement, fast troops have occupied the French armament centre of Le Cruzot and have captured Belfort Fortress. The fortress of Dijon fell without a fight.

"The Metz fortress surrendered to audaciously advancing mobile German detachments. From there, still defended sectors of the Maginot Line on both sides of Thionville are now being attacked from the rear.

"The break through of the Maginot Line south of Saarbruecken has widened as far as the Rhine-Marne Canal.

"The attack against the Vosges is advancing on the upper Rhine. Colmar was taken. Yesterday alone far over 100,000 prisoners were taken. . . .

"We succeeded in obtaining a hitherto biggest raid effect on the Loire estuary.

"Enormous shipping space was severely damaged or destroyed."

(These claims were not confirmed from Allied sources.)

Floods in Transylvania

BUCHAREST, Rumania (AP)—At least 50 persons died in floods which followed a cloudburst in Transylvania, it was reported today.

New Zealand Conscription Covers 500,000

By J. C. GRAHAM

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP) — The New Zealand government today issued regulations making 500,000 men between the ages of 16 and 60 liable for compulsory national service, including service overseas, in the home forces or in essential national work.

The Dominion's manpower thus will form a general reserve from which classes will be enrolled as required, according to age, conjugal status and domestic responsibilities.

From the enrolled classes men will be selected for the armed forces by ballot. Appeal will be allowed against army service on grounds of undue hardship, employment in essential work and conscientious objection.

The regulations provide that voluntary enlistments may be discontinued. No indication was given whether military conscription will begin immediately. Home units are at their full authorized establishment and ample volunteers are also offering to fill expeditionary force quotas for several months in advance.

In Australia all unmarried males and widowers without children are liable for military service in the Dominion, but service overseas is on a voluntary basis.

Northern and Southern Rhodesia also have compulsory military service.

The War Today

By GUY RHOADES

Britain today braced herself to fight the second great war alone to a finish while Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini met in the cradle of National Socialism to draft peace terms they will offer France to end hostilities.

While weary French troops still resisted the Germans and 350,000 escaped from the trapped Maginot Line, a grim House of Commons in London heard its dogged Prime Minister tell how the island nation could be defended by an army of more than 1,250,000 men and an additional local defence force of 500,000.

Winston Churchill disclosed that seven out of every eight British soldiers sent to France had been brought home and mentioned an advance force of 2,000 Canadians who landed in France only to leave again with'n a few hours when they found themselves without company and in a dangerous predicament.

Churchill said that "the French government will be casting away their future if they do not continue the war in accordance with the'r treaty obligations from which we have not felt able to relieve them."

Port Alberni Notes

PORT ALBERNI—The city council approved a draft of the pulp mill pipeline agreement last night, and it was returned to Victoria for revision at request of officials.

Arrangements were made here today to have the heads of families notify city authorities regarding the number of refugee children each would be able to accommodate.

Mayor W. C. Hamilton told the council last night he had received a cable from England asking if two adults and seven children could be accommodated in Port Alberni.

"By all means. Can handle more," was his reply.

R.A.F. Bombs Hit Many Nazi Centres

LONDON (CP)—The Air Ministry announced tonight that British fighters last night "shot down two enemy bombers over the northeast coast of France."

Earlier today it stated Royal Air Force bombers last night attacked military objectives in Germany at Gelsenkirchen, Homburg, Wanne Eickel, Essen, Dolberoen, Hamburg, Aachen, Duisburg, Ryedt, Cologne and Coblenz.

Another Air Ministry communique said "the R.A.F. heavily bombarded military objectives over a wide area in the Rhineland, Ruhr and northwestern Germany last night."

"Early today an enemy destroyer off the Frisian Islands was bombed and hit amidships," the report added.

The Air Ministry said the destroyer was one of a group encountered by a Lockheed Hudson plane on reconnaissance patrol over the North Sea early today.

"The pilot dived to attack," the report said, 'and let go his bombs, one of them scoring a direct hit amidships.

"Volumes of smoke immediately came from the German vessel. Smoke was still issuing from it when the aircraft turned away and set course for its base."

The report said the destroyer was at anchor off the German island of Norderney.

Proposes Fleet Largest Ever Seen

WASHINGTON (AP)—Admiral Harold R. Stark unexpectedly recommended to Congress today a $4,000,000,000 expansion of the navy to give the United States the greatest fleet the world has ever seen.

Testifying before the House of Representatives naval committee after a closed session, the chief of naval operations said the proposed program would add about 200 fighting ships to the navy and 1,250,000 tons to the navy's authorized combat tonnage. That tonnage now amounts to about 1,724,480 tons, he added.

Stark's public testimony on the new proposal was confined to barest details but, in response to questions from Chairman Vinson, Democrat, Georgia, he said he considered it "essential" to the defence of the United States and insular possessions as well as the defence of the Monroe Doctrine.

ITALIAN CLAIMS

ROME (AP)—Today's Italian communique:

"During the night of June 16 to 17 efficacious bombardments were carried out on the naval base of Bizerta, military objectives of Malta and airports of Corsica.

"Our submarines sank two enemy oil tankers, one of them of heavy tonnage.

(This claim was not confirmed from Allied sources.)

"In North Africa operations continued on the Cyrenaican border.

"In East Africa numerous air operations were carried out with success in which air bases and military objectives of the upper Sundan were bombarded. All our planes returned. Three enemy planes were destroyed on the ground.

(The R.A.F. in Egypt reported no planes lost in these raids. There were several civilian casualties.)

"A chaser was shot down in flames.

"Several raids were carried out by enemy aviation without appreciable damage. One plane was shot down in flames.

(In these raids the R.A.F. bombed gasoline stores, motor transport units and barracks. One hangar and three planes were destroyed.)

News Monopoly Move Balked

VANCOUVER—Newspapers are still the best method of conveying news in quantity, although the nature of radio makes it possible to disseminate news faster, Dick Diespecker, CJOR news editor, told members of the Advertising and Sales Bureau of the Board of Trade at a luncheon in Hotel Vancouver

Charging that "consistent attempts have been made to develop a monopoly on radio news in Canada by the Canadian Press," Diespecker said, "We believe that it is contrary to the public interest to have any monopoly on news in Canada."

"The Canadian Broadcasting Company is in the position of a business subsidized by the government which has complete control over the activities of all its competitors," he stated, paying tribute to the radio network for not allowing "the pressure of the Canadian Press" to pass a law restricting radio news to the network.

Stating that radio news helps rather than hurts newspaper circulation, Mr. Diespecker said that "radio has now reached the stage where it can and must be placed as a partner of the newspaper," and called for "a community of newspapers and radios working hand in hand to support Canada and the Empire by bolstering public morale in the face of enemy propaganda.

"News presentation in Canada," he said, "is a matter of selecting the news to present a fair picture of the war from day to day."

Radio Speech Rallies Britons

LONDON (CP)—Great Britain rallied today behind the defiant assertion of Prime Minister Winston Churchill that the Empire will "fight on unconquerable" regardless of the French suit for peace.

Press and public acclaimed the Prime Minister's declaration, made last night in a two-minute radio speech.

It was considered probable that Germany and Italy would demand the French navy as part of the price for peace, but doubt was expressed whether the fleet—under British command since the start of the war—actually could be surrendered.

The British government disclosed that during the dark hours of Sunday, before France asked Germany her conditions for peace, Britain had offered to unite with France as one nation to continue the struggle.

The union would have been complete, with one government, all-inclusive citizenship and common agencies for defence, finances and foreign relations. It would, in effect, have been the first step to a United States of Europe, once a French ideal.

Apparently the French cabinet rejected the offer at the meeting which resulted in Paul Reynaud's resignation as Premier and Marshal Henri Philippe Petain's designation as his successor.

The political correspondent of the London News Chronicle said that an "overwhelming majority" of the House of Commons supported Mr. Churchill in his declaration that Britain would continue the fight.

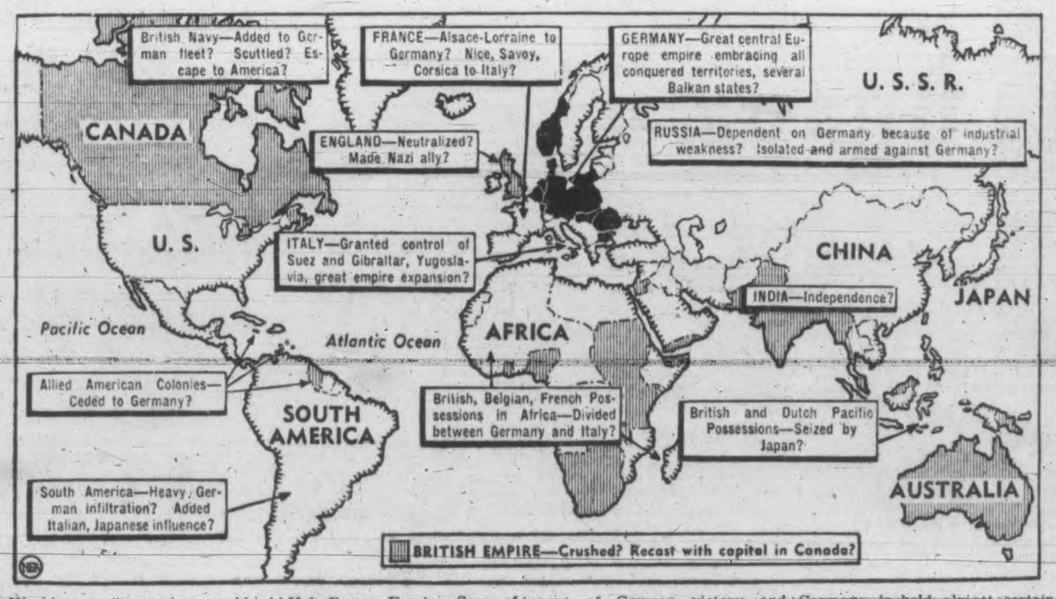
The article declared, however, that "a few politically unimportant high Tory 'big business' men and few pacifists are believed to have canvassed the chance of an early peace with Hitler."

MEDWICK 'BEANED'

BROOKLYN (AP) — Outfielder Joe Medwick, obtained by the Brooklyn Dodgers last week in a trade from the St. Louis Cardinals, was knocked out today by a ball pitched by Bob Bowman, his former teammate.

Medwick was carried from the field on a stretcher and several of the Dodgers, apparently under the impression that Bowman had thrown an intentional "bean ball," rushed the St. Louis pitcher, but were restrained by the umpires.

How Hitler Wants to Carve Up the World



World map shows what would happen if Hitler should ever win the war and dictate peace terms at Muenster, which was the site of the treaty of 1648 which ended the 30 Years' War and took from Germany most of the power of the old Holy Roman Empire. Some of Hitler's peace ideas are well known and No. 1 is: destruction of the British Empire. If Hitler could capture the British navy, disintegration of the Empire likely would result. France would be reduced to a second-rate power in event of German victory and would almost certainly face a revolution from the Right. Italy's share in any war spoils would depend on Hitler's "generosity." Italy would probably become a satellite state controling such key spots as Gibraltar, Suez and Jibuti — to Germany's benefit. Germany is held almost certain to lose a long war, but in the event of such an unforeseen victory, military observers believe the state of exhaustion of Hitler's armies would prevent terms as harsh as those outlined. Hitler himself, of course, is the only man who knows Hitler's mind.

'Y' War Work In May Given

Y.M.C.A. work with men of His Majesty's forces at the Red Triangle Hut and at the headquarters in town continued brisk during May, despite the arrival of summer weather inducive to outdoor activity, members of the board of directors were informed by W. T. Straith, M.P.P., chairman of the war services' committee, at yesterday's luncheon meeting in Spencer's.

During the month there were 5,784 attendances to games room of the hut. An average of 35 letters were written in the writing room of the hut daily. The auditorium had been used for church services and the chapel had three communion services as well as several prayer meetings.

In addition to the church services, the auditorium was used for seven concerts and dances in May. Total attendance to the functions was 1,111.

Other reports were given on general work the association did in the month. Frank Paulding, general secretary, gave a detailed report on the war services campaign, which collected $12,978.25 from 1,449 pledges, the largest sum collected by the "Y" in a canvass for many years.

The campaign was a selective name-type of canvass chosen because of the many other drives which were being planned at the time. The canvass also protected the Community Chest by not using the Chest set-up, Mr. Paulding said.

J. A. Heritage reported that the circus held at the end of the month cleared $541.25. Total revenue was $896.03 and total expenditure $354.78.

The loyalty shown by members and past members of the association in the staging of the circus was stressed by Archie McKinnon in the physical department report presented by Warren W. Martin.

Thanks to everyone who took part, and organizations which helped in its presentation, were extended.

Boys' department report showed that activities in May were well up in comparison with past years. Other reports were heard on finance, religious and foreign, educational and social.

'Give Allies Wheat'---Telford

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mayor Lyle Telford urged that Canada's wheat surplus be given outright to the Allied countries as he returned from the Canadian mayors' conference at Ottawa.

"Our surplus wheat, which we are unable to eat because of our own economic and financial insanity, should be given freely, not sold, by the Canadian people to the victims of war-torn Europe," said Mayor Telford.

New Method Used In Making Lard

CHICAGO (AP)—John Holmes, president of Swift & Co., has announced the discovery of what he described as a "revolutionary development" in the processing of lard.

The development, the meat packer said, involves the addition of small quantities of a vegetable substance obtained from tropical trees, making it possible to protect lard's natural advantages and at the same time keeping it fresh when exposed to air without refrigeration. The vegetable substance, known as gum guaiac, comes from the sap of the guaiacum tree, which grows in the West Indies and Central America.

Labor Training Seen Big Need

OTTAWA (CP) — Immediate concentration of the training of men for skilled labor was one of the greatest single contributions the government could make toward solving the unemployment problem at the present time, Labor Minister Norman McLarty told the House of Commons yesterday.

Mr. McLarty made a statement on the unemployment problem just before the House adopted the resolution on which he will base the unemployment and farm relief measure for the current fiscal year.

The minister said there were some 772,000 people in Canada receiving relief in some form last March, a drop of 25 per cent from March, 1939, but still "far too high." He had been one of those who thought war would end the relief problem, but it had not done so.

The relief bill is virtually the same as that brought down last year except that it does not provide any expenditures for public works, and the power to loan money to provinces to meet their share of relief costs is restricted to such loans as are in "the national interest."

Canada-U.S. Alliance Unwritten One

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP)—The United States ultimately will have to fight alone against the dictators if it does not help the Allies in the present war, Capt. Norman Rawson of Hamilton, Ont., told the annual convention of Kiwanis International here yesterday. He served on the general staff of British forces in Russia during the first Great War.

Bennett O. Knudson, Albertlea, Minn., president of Kiwanis International, in an address said his country "if called upon to do so, will exhaust its entire strength in defence of Canada and democracy.

He said there was an unwritten alliance between Canada and the United States.

125 Rescuers Killed

LONDON (CP)—Sir Victor Warrender, financial secretary to the admiralty, announced in the House of Commons today that 125 civilians were killed and 81 wounded in aiding the navy remove the Allied armies from Dunkerque.

Sir Victor said that of the casualties four killed and two wounded were civilian volunteers and the rest members of the merchant marine.

Dominion Mourns

Canada paid its last tribute to Hon. Norman Rogers, Minister of National Defence, killed in a plane crash June 10, when the flag-draped coffin was placed in the Hall of Fame, in the Parliament Buildings for a funeral service. This picture was taken as cortege moved away from Parliament Hill to the railway station, the gun-carriage drawn by Royal Canadian Mounted Police. In the rear of the carriage are members of the family, cabinet ministers, church dignitaries and representatives of Canada's armed forces. The body was taken to Montreal for cremation. Burial will be at Amherst, N.S.

Record Budget Due Thursday

New Taxes to Meet Canadian War Needs

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's war effort, hitherto considered mostly in terms of men, ships, airplanes, shells and guns, will be portrayed in dollars and cents this week when the finance minister Hon. J. L. Ralston, presents his budget. Indications are Thursday will be budget day.

Then the Canadian public will learn not only the general picture of war finance in terms of hundreds of millions of dollars, but just how extra moneys are to be extracted from the pockest of individual taxpayers.

All signs point to Mr. Ralston presenting the biggest budget in Canadian history, a budget which will call for new taxes and increases in old taxes.

The war appropriation bill, already passed by parliament, runs to $700,000,000 and estimates of expenditure for normal governmental purposes run to about $450,000,000.

Col. Ralston's budget will not propose the raising of these sums, aggregating more than $1,000,000,000, by taxation.

Already the government is borrowing from the public through the war savings certificates and there may be large war loan campaigns.

WOULD REDUCE BORROWING

The general policy of war finance, however, as stated at the special war session of parliament last September is to pay expenses out of revenue as far as possible.

In framing the budget and deciding where and how heavily to tax, the expert advisers of the finince minister keep in mind the general economic well-being of the country, the foreign exchange situation and the importance of keeping business and industry functioning smoothly.

Thus the tax changes may be such as to produce as much revenue as possible with a minimum of dislocation. They may bear more heavily on individual incomes and individual spending than on corporate endeavors.

Tariff changes, usually a prominent feature of the budget will be few. The income tax may be increased and the exemptions reduced in order to bring lower incomes, not presently taxable into the tax field.

Ottawa Using Wider Control Over Industry

OTTAWA (CP)—Urged on by the pressure of events in Europe, the government is using more and more its power to control price and production of war essentials and to establish new plants, Hon. C. D. Howe, Minister of Munitions and Supply, told the House of Commons last night.

Mr. Howe gave an outline of how he exercises the unlimited powers conferred on him by order-in-council to mobilize industry. The measure before the house at the time was an amendment to the Munitions and Supply Act to confirm these powers. It was considered in committee and now stands for third reading.

"We have gone into a plant and said 'We want this article. The price is so much. You must manufacture this article. If you are not satisfied with the price you can take it to the Exchequer Court of Canada'."

A number of plants had been built to manufacture war essentials of a type which had no peacetime counterpart. It was not advisable to say where these plants were located, Mr. Howe told a questioner, but one was in northern Ontario.

Angus MacInnis, C.C.F., Vancouver East, protested a provision that those appointed to the department from outside the civil service will be eligible, when the life of the department is ended, to permanent appointments in the civil service without examination if qualified.

Mr. Howe said this meant little since all those taken into the department at full salary would be appointed by the civil service in the first instance.

DECENTRALIZE INDUSTRIES

A munitions board, or the minister himself should have power to give orders direct to manufacturers without having to go through the cabinet or encounter formality, said Karl Homuth, Conservative, South Waterloo, Ont. He urged establishment of industries as widespread as possible across Canada.

Western Canada would be a safer place for essential industries than the large industrial centres of Eastern Canada.

M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F., Rosetown-Biggar, Sask., asked the government to say it would mobilize resources as was being done in Britain, Australia and New Zealand.

"If we are going to dispense with rugged individuals, then we should have collectivism," he said. "If we don't adopt such a policy, it will be thrust on us within a few months."

If industry and finance were organized labor would also be ready to co-operate fully.

Mr. Howe said his intention was to mobilize industry fully for the prosecution of the war, but it would be a progressive matter. However, that power had been used to a considerable extent already.

In the last week the situation had altered rapidly, reaching the present stage far earlier than anticipated.

PROTECTION OF WORKERS

Clarence Gillis, C.C.F., Cape Breton South, asked the minister if his powers would enable him to make sure the rights of workers to organize would be recognized by companies working on war production. He referred to charges he made last week that the John Inglis Company of Toronto, making Bren guns on government contract, was refusing to permit its workers to organize for collective bargaining.

Mr. Howe said he had many inquiries and learned from government officials that the Inglis Company had "a good many hundreds" of trade unionists working in the plant, and had always welcomed organization of its workers.

"I want to say this," Mr. Howe declared vehemently, "it seems to be a popular sport among honorable members opposite to slam the John Inglis Company. I believe the Inglis company is playing a part in this war second to none." The plant was six months ahead of schedule in Bren gun production and on production of boilers for the government.

"I suggest to every member in the House that attempts to ridicule or injure the John Inglis Company should cease in the interests of Canada's prosecution of the war."

URUGUAY MOVES ON 5TH COLUMN

MONTEVIDEO (AP)—A government measure regulating the right of association with a view to suppressing organizations which might carry on fifth column activities became a law early this morning with senate approval.

The senate passed the measure without amendments after long deliberations.

The chamber of deputies had given its approval on June 13.

The German minister already had ordered closed all Nazi centres and organizations in Uruguay in expectation that the measure would become a law.

All U.S. Strength Urged Against Hitler

SYDNEY, Australia (CP) — Prime Minister R. G. Menzies, commenting on the situation arising from France's request for an armistice with Germany, said the future now "is up to British courage," reinforced by "the whole resources of the American continent."

"I cannot believe this cruel stroke of misfortune will leave America unmoved, or that any American can any longer doubt that the defeat of France brings the menace of Hitler to his own door.

"Free peoples of the world must get together for a great stand and act promptly. There is no doubt that in the long run they will win."

The Prime Minister added it was unthinkable Britain could or would be conquered. He did not doubt France would rise again, liberated.

14 Teachers Lose Posts

LANGLEY, B.C. (CP) — Dismissal notices will be sent to 14 school teachers of Langley municipality "immediately," school board members have decided.

A spokesman for the board said the members "ordered immediate cancelation of their contracts" at the close of the present teaching term.

Resignation of the group recently was asked by the board following a long dispute between the teachers and the board over wage increases awarded them by an arbitration board. The school board contended the municipality could not afford the extra expense.

No resignations were filed.

St. Pierre's Future Under Discussion

OTTAWA (CP)—The status of the islands of St. Pierre and Miquelon, French possessions lying off the south coast of Newfoundland, will probably be subject of discussions between Canada and the United States should France make peace with Germany, it is believed here.

In the case of Greenland, a Danish possession, both Canada and the United States appointed consuls to the island after Germany had overrun Denmark. Canada sent a ship to Greenland which carried supplies to the inhabitants.

The French islands have a population of 5,000, mostly fishermen, and are governed by an administrator appointed by the French colonial service. They have also a council for purely local affairs.

Refused Flag Salute, 'Ducked' in River

CALGARY (CP)—A Calgary junior high school student's refusal to salute the Union Jack in daily classroom ceremonies resulted in his being "ducked" in the river by his schoolmates.

An instructor reported to the school principal yesterday he had broken up a "squabble" among the boys who were angry because the youth had refused to salute the colors. Later it was reported to city police the boy had been thrown in the river after school. They investigated, reported that the boy's attitude had not been directed by his parents, and refused further comment.

Superintendent of Schools F. G. Buchanan said he had heard of the incident, but had not considered action.

"The board asked a while ago that greater emphasis be placed on saluting the flag, at this time. It is done in most schools, but is voluntary and no check is kept on pupils. It is not compulsory," he stated.

'All Will Come Right'

WHEN HE BECAME PRIME MINISTER more than a month ago Mr. Churchill told the people of Great Britain they were in for many dark days. He did not mince matters; he saw a great deal farther than most people. But he never doubted the final outcome; in spite of all that has happened since May 10—the entrance of Italy into the war on the side of Germany and the collapse of France—he reiterated yesterday his faith in the future. Said he:

"What has happened in France makes no difference to British faith and purpose. We have become the sole champion now in arms to defend the world cause. We shall do our best to be worthy of this high honor. We shall defend our island home, and with the British Empire around us, we shall fight on unconquerable until the curse of Hitler is lifted from the brows of men. We are sure that in the end all will come right."

In the House of Commons this afternoon the Prime Minister admitted frankly that "the battle of Britain is about to begin." But he assured his listeners that more than 1,250,000 men are under arms, that behind these stand 500,000 local defence volunteers, that armies from the Dominions are there, and that in view of all these preparations "invasion of this country would require hostile armies on a very large scale."

And as Mr. Churchill reminded the British public that "we have a navy" he predicted confidently that any forces invading Britain would very likely be "drowned in the sea or blown to pieces while trying to land." This is the spirit that will strengthen the resolve of the people in their "island home" as the new battle is about to begin. For they know, as all friends of freedom know, that "if we lost it, the whole world, including the United States of America, will sink into the abyss of a new dark age." But we can echo the Prime Minister's sentiments: "We are sure that in the end all will come right."

France Still Fighting

ONE SENTENCE IN MR. CHURCHILL'S speech in the House of Commons this afternoon was more significant for what it seemed to infer than for what may have been deduced from a cursory consideration of its contents. He said "the French government will be casting away their future if they do not continue the war in accordance with their treaty obligations—from which we have not felt able to relieve them." The Prime Minister added, however, that "it is not yet certain that military resistance by France will come to an end."

There is a suggestion in the sentence to which we specifically refer that France may repudiate former Premier Reynaud's declaration that his country would fight on, no matter where the battle might continue, in Africa or in French possessions over the seas. It would be foolish and unfair to think that the government composed largely of French fighting men intends to go back on its ally and follow the procedure of some other nations which have come under the Hitlerian heel. For the moment, however, the Churchillian phrase must stand and an anxious British public hopes for the best.

As this is written, it is to be noted, French troops are fighting on by the day's orders of Marshal Petain while the heads of the two totalitarian states confer. How long Britain's ally will be able to hold out, whether her navy and air force will be turned over to British commanders if French land forces should be compelled to surrender, are points which are naturally exercising the minds of everybody. France's refusal to accept Britain's offer of a solemn act of union, which would have merged both nations into one, must have been a bitter disappointment to Prime Minister Churchill and his colleagues at Westminster. Premier Reynaud evidently could not persuade a majority of his cabinet to see the proposal as he did; his resignation followed.

But It Is Inevitable

WHY DID FRANCE REFUSE BRITAIN'S offer to begin the surrender of her jealously-guarded sovereignty with a proposal for an act of union between the two nations? What influence was brought to bear on the majority of the government of M. Reynaud which spurned a gesture that might well have furnished the foundation for a new order of international relationships—that might have had the effect of solidifying neutral opinion against the totalitarian tyranny, because of its promise of a new conception of world obligations?

These are questions which undoubtedly are exercising the minds of men who recognize that if other nations are to be induced to swell the forces now battling the Nazi and Fascist monsters, there must be some sort of guarantee, vague and chimerical though it may be, that the old order of any form of power politics is as extinct as the dodo. It must be made clear—as the British offer to France obviously was intended to make it clear—that the delicate and highly-explosive controversy of nationalism and sovereignty could be dealt with not only in the interests of those nations at war but also in the interests of universal security and universal peace.

It will be said, perhaps, that this is no time to discuss matters which for long have remained in the academic realm. Such an argument lacks logic. All the democratic world is in extremis; one of the wealthiest empires of that world is at this moment contemplating the prospect of fighting all the incalculable forces of evil—fighting them alone. The wealthiest of all the nations, wealthy in material possessions, in geographical fortune, in all the resources essential to maintain its place as the final bulwark against the encroachment of these evil forces, is sharing the apprehension which must assail Britain as she now girds herself for her battle for life.

These are times when such matters may in days or even hours become as important as the task which must be performed, come what may, for heroic as are the measures which already have been taken, still more drastic resolves may be dictated by the course of events. But these should not dismay us. For is it not true—especially true in British history since the days of King Charles, and since the Reform Act of 1832—that great and far-reaching changes have been forged on the anvil of dire necessity? France may yet have to accept her share in the beginning of the inevitable new world order of co-operation.

Partizanship Plus

CRITICS OF PARTY GOVERNMENT AT Ottawa say that Liberals in the present crisis should cease to think as Liberals. The Toronto Star asks whether it is not equally important that Conservatives should cease to think as Conservatives. What is above all necessary, of course, is that Liberals and Conservatives alike should think as Canadians and as upholders of democracy.

The government chosen by the established democratic method and given a majority such as accorded no other Canadian government, happens to be Liberal. Purely partizan criticism of that government is not creditable to those who indulge in it. The idea that critics will not co-operate unless they are taken into the government cannot be described as patriotic. When, as in some cases, the clamor against Mr. King professes to be patriotic it is simply hypocrisy added to partizanship.

Our 'Fifth Columnists'

BRIGADIER STOCKWELL IS QUITE right to nail down numerous stories in circulation throughout Vancouver Island that men who were supposed to have tried to enlist were rejected for frivolous reasons. And it is to the point that he, as the commanding officer of this military district, should let it be known from information in his possession that those agencies spreading this type of rumor—for that is the correct name for it—are, to all intents and purposes, serving the enemy's "Fifth Column." This is what Brigadier Stockwell has to say on the subject:

"No man fit to bear arms is being rejected, and any statements to the contrary are false. Any loyal citizen hearing such propaganda or any other statements against the public interest should report all details to the District Intelligence Officer at Work Point Barracks, where all stories will be traced down and appropriate action taken against the offenders."

Persons who hear propaganda likely to hamper the nation's war effort should not only refuse to repeat it but should lose no time reporting the source of such "information" so that suitable action may be taken without delay. We have a "Fifth Column" in Canada, in British Columbia, and in Victoria. One of the best ways to fight it is to repeat none of its rumors. If there is to be any talking about it it should be done to the proper authorities.

Notes

Today, 125 years ago, the Battle of Waterloo was won by the British under the Duke of Wellington, lost by the forces of the Europe-conquering Napoleon. On that battlefield near Brussels the ambition of one dictator met its doom. That a Waterloo awaits all would-be world dictators is a lesson of history. It is well to recall it in these days.

Hamilton Fish Armstrong, editor of the quarterly, Foreign Affairs, just back from Europe, expresses himself this way: "The United States should help in strangling the barbarians lest the barbarians strangle the United States. Drydocks and harbors should be opened to British and French warships. A score or more United States flying fortresses that can fly too high for German fighters, should be turned over to the Allies so they can bomb vital German dumps of war materials."

THE "BUTS" AND THE "IFS"
From Vancouver News-Herald

The Allies will win this war but—

Canada is putting forth an effort of which the whole nation is proud, but—

The politicians at home and abroad are working like Trojans to defeat the enemy.

This is the talk heard wherever men congregate. There is no stint of the praise for the men who are fighting; no doubt of ultimate victory but too often there is the qualifying "but." There is the suggestion that if the speaker was in command or authority the ultimate triumph would be more certain, more assured, and more speedily reached.

This "but" is unfair to the men who are fighting and to those who are giving their all in the great cause.

We are paralyzing their efforts and weakening their determination when we cast doubts on their endeavors by our "buts" and "ifs."

The Allies will win and Right will prevail and there are no qualifications about it.

WHAT WE CAN DO?

THE DEFEAT OF FRANCE at last brings North America face to face with reality. The surrender of France isolates the British Isles as the next object of Nazi attack. The people of England, Scotland, Wales and Ireland will of course fight for their national self-preservation. But whether they can maintain themselves or not depends greatly on what we North Americans do, or fail to do. And if our own Motherland goes the way of France we, too, will face the ordeal of Nazi aggression.

I am positive that North America, even now, could render enough assistance to Britain to enable her to survive the attack. There are several ways in which Canada could share in that assistance, and even lead in it. The first and obvious thing to do is to get into uniform every available fit man, and to get to the British Isles every such man who is sufficiently equipped to fight, and sufficiently trained to fight. The kind of uniform that the man wears does not matter. Whether he carries a Ross rifle or a Lee Enfield does not matter. We have to use what we can get. The smartest young professional soldier I met in recent years told me that the brass hats would shiver at his idea, but that if he were running the infantry he would equip at least half of all the men not with rifles, but ordinary 12-bore shotguns.

When the last desperate German drive was halted in 1918 the British front was held in spots by cooks and batmen and Army Service Corps fellows who, till then, had never fired a shot in earnest in their lives.

If there is one thing that the North American continent has in common, it is pride in the pioneer tradition. Our forefathers did not need brass buttons, nor newfangled gaiters, before they were fit to fight for their very lives. Some wore kilts, some overalls. If we throw everything we have got into the fight we can not only help to save the Motherland, but can forestall an otherwise certain invasion of this continent.

AN ANGLO-SAXON FIGHT

I DO NOT BELIEVE that the English-speaking world can now look for any appreciable help from any other peoples than those of the British Commonwealth and the United States. Of all the countries of the world which are natural happy hunting grounds for the Fascists, I should say that those of Latin America are the happiest. Anyone who is leaning on the help that the United States or democracy will get from such countries as Mexico and Brazil is leaning on a broken reed. If the Monroe Doctrine holds up under the threat of Nazi aggression it will do so because Uncle Sam keeps out the armed forces with a big stick.

I know of no doctrine or big stick which will effectively keep Nazi ideology out of South America.

All of which indicates that co-operation between Canada and the United States has got to become a matter of practical immediate reality, and not just empty oratory about 3,000 miles of undefended frontier.

There are some things which we can do now. For example:

Co-ordinate our military equipment program with that of the United States, partly because we can no longer be sure that we can continue to get any amount of equipment in Britain; and partly because we will have to depend on this continent anyway, and completely, if the British Isles meet the same fate as France.

Attempt to form a financial or monetary union with the United States, so that the now-useless gold reserves of the United States would at least serve to keep the Canadian dollar at par, and so increase the physical volume of our purchases by 20 per cent. This might be undertaken as a mere wartime experiment, but might prove so successful as to extend everywhere later on.

A FINISH FIGHT

WE MUST REALIZE that this is a finish fight. France went down as Austria, Czechoslovakia, Poland, Denmark, Norway, Holland and Belgium went in their turn. Britain is next on Hitler's list. We can be sure that when he strikes he will do so with the concentrated deadliness of a million rattlesnakes. And if he wins, our turn, right here in America, is just a matter of months.

Hitler has never yet given his next intended victim a chance to attain an equal fighting chance with him. He knows perfectly well that if he conquers Britain, as he has boasted he will do before August 15, the United States will throw her whole industrial machine into 24-hour, seven-day-a-week production. Hitler knows what that would mean in two years' time. He is not such a fool as to give his last remaining obstacle to complete world mastery a chance to frustrate the aim which he plainly set out as the goal of all real leaders, of which he classes himself the greatest.

If we in North America have not brains enough to see that, after what has already happened to the rest of the world, we deserve to be enslaved.

But there is still time to save ourselves by helping to stop Hitler from conquering England.

When you get up to the monthly-salary level, part of the fun is gone forever. You never again have that grand rich, free feeling on Saturday night.

A proud man never accuses his wife of abusing him. He talks about some other abused husband and hopes she sees the resemblance.

REFUGEE CHILDREN

To the Editor—Most of us listened to President Roosevelt and his appeal on behalf of those who have been driven from their homes by ruthless barbarians. President Roosevelt's appeal was for money for the Red Cross to assist these people, but Canada's help, I think, should take another more personal form. We should insist that our government at once load up every boat returning from England to Canada with refugee children from Holland, Belgium, France and Norway who are now being cared for by the British people. It is not a question of waiting for any formalities. The people of the British Isles have enough on their hands with their own children having to be moved from their homes and cared for elsewhere. Yet they open their doors wide to the fugitives from Europe; no question is asked at their ports beyond checking to see that they are not German spies. They are allowed to come and are fed and sheltered by the hundreds of thousands.

There is no way in which Canada could help the Old Country more and at the same time help the cause of humanity than by bringing the children to this country in thousands. I am convinced that our homes would be thrown open to them where they could be cared for and fed and housed until the end of the war. There will be thousands of orphans who will have no homes to return to and I feel sure that they will find permanent homes among us with no difficulty.

This will have a particular appeal to Canadians as the families needing assistance are those on whom we were billetted and whom we got to know so well during the last war.

There is no time to lose. England knows that she is to face bombing raids and parachute attacks at any moment. The work of the troops will be immensely simplified if as many as possible of the non-combatants, and particularly the children, are out of the way.

It will relieve an extra load on their hospital services and, of course, the immense difficulty of feeding this additional population. Our trouble in Canada has been to sell our food, so, surely, an extra half million people to feed would not be noticed.

Let us get busy at once and show that our humanity, our Christianity and our loyalty are not mere words, and that we are capable of something on a grand scale now that the need has arisen.

ARTHUR LEIGHTON.

IN THE PARK

To the Editor:—As a lover of wild life, allow me to express my indignation at the indifference of the park officials to the fate of the animals and birds entrusted to their care. One of the sights of the park was the swans with their brood of seven and the dozen of young ducks. Most of the young ducks have gone and the swans are reduced to three.

These birds are the property of the taxpayer and are fed and attended to at public expense.

The park is swarming with rats, and the park authorities are too careless to engage a rat catcher. I have seen four or five rats hunting in broad day light.

SOME 'I HEARDS'

To the Editor:—I have been a subscriber to your paper since taking up residence in British Columbia over three years ago and wish to compliment you on the high standard of your paper.

My suggestion is the establishment of a "I heard it said" column to deal with some of the loose and unfounded statements made by some of our citizens in all sincerity and believed and passed along by countless hearers to countless more.

As an example I overheard a few days ago a chap informing his listeners that the per capita debt of Canada was $400 odd while that of the United States was $50 odd.

Yesterday I was informed that the reason the Krupp works in Germany had not been bombed was that ex-Premier Chamberlain owned stock therein and that this was just another capitalistic war.

If these statements and others of a similar nature were sent in by subscribers and debunked it would be most interesting and instructive.

"FIFTH COLUMN"
From the Nation

Newspapers have hinted that an exposure of Britain's "Fifth Column" may break any day. The New York Times, insiders report, has had details for nearly a fortnight. Editors discussed them in a private session last week, but since the material was emphatically "off the record," the Times, like other dailies, had to wait.

British railways serve 9,000,000 meals annually, with 250,000 pieces of crockery being broken.

AMERICA AND THE LEAGUE
From League of Nations Fortnightly News

The general international situation and the further withdrawal of any immediate prospect of security in the world were responsible for a clearer statement of America's attitude to international co-operation. The Geneva Research Centre says: "Whatever the differences of method or of obligation might be as between the United States and the League of Nations, there was (in 1939) a very complete identity of purpose. The United States, as a government devoted to peace and prosperity between nations, and the League, as an international agency devoted to the same ends, were seeking exactly the same objectives in international life. It is not surprising then that, as the world crisis became constantly graver, the theoretical differences which had bulked so large in the past should have tended to give way to a greater mutual interest and sympathy. It is even permissible to wonder, as the world was struggling in the grip of another catastrophe, what might have been the difference if the United States either had added its immense influence, with whatever reservations desired, to the League in 1920 or had in the two-score years since evolved a practical method of effective association."

RECRUITING DELAY WILL BRING REGRET

"If you are physically fit you should join the army now or you will regret it for the rest of your life. Conditions are serious and your influence in helping the recruiting campaign is necessary. Don't delay," said Lieutenant-Colonel Hugh Allen, R.C.S.C., before members of the Victoria Gyro Club at a luncheon meeting held in the Empress Hotel yesterday.

Lieut.-Colonel Allen, speaking on "The Army Service Corps—Its History and Present Activities," traced the history of the corps from the time in which it was first actively used in the Red River Rebellion of 1869, until the present day.

Among the many jobs which have to be handled by the Army Service Corps are the moving of ammunition, food, petrol, bakeries, butcheries and field workshops to the troops in the line, and the transportation of the infantry and other troops.

IN THICK OF FIGHTING

"The Army Service Corps is no longer a noncombatant unit as many think. The men handle rifles and machine guns and their job is to protect their supply convoy from attack from the air and from the ground. All concentrated fighting takes place where communication lines meet or are stationed, so that the Service Corps is in the thick of the fighting," said the speaker.

The speaker described the operations carried out by the Army Service Corps during the last war, and spoke of the many problems that had to be overcome before the necessary supplies could be transported to the front lines.

"Railheads are places where supplies are dumped and broken into smaller dumps so that they can be easily handled for transportation to the different units. Separate railheads are assigned to handle separate supplies."

"In modern warfare, there are 2,500 vehicles to each division of troops. The gasoline or petrol consumption for such a division, under modern methods of warfare, amounts to about 1,000,000 gallons per month," continued the speaker.

In urging the speeding up of recruiting, Lieutenant-Colonel Allen said that whatever station a man holds in civilian life, there is always a place for him in the Army Service Corps.

"During the last war most of us were quite content to join in the ranks, but now it seems that everyone wants to obtain a commission, which is impossible. Use your influence to help recruiting and do not wait. Do it now," the speaker urged.

The speaker was introduced by R. B. Wilson and was thanked on behalf of the Gyro Club by R. L. Challoner.

Silent tribute was paid to Charles Graham, a member of the Gyro Club who passed away last week.

A. R. Minnis, president of the club, acted as chairman of the meeting.

Mercury Output To Be Increased

Output of the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company's cinnabar property on Pinchi Lake in the Stuart Lake area will be greatly increased, according to Hon. W. J. Asselstine, Minister of Mines, who returned to the city today after an inspection tour of mining areas in the province.

Cinnabar is the ore of mercury and one of the minerals needed in the war effort.

Mr. Asselstine said he thought the search for war minerals should be intensified now. Although there is not the demand at present for some metals the government is listing all available deposits so that as the need arises development can be done with the least possible delay.

The government has two geologists accompanying survey parties on the route of the Alaska Highway to explore mineral possibilities in the far northern section of the province.

GAS PRICE CUT

First change in Regulation No. 11 of the Coal and Petroleum Products Control Board, which fixes the prices of gasoline, was made today and gave users of gasoline at Jordan River and Muir Creek a one-cent per gallon reduction.

The amendment, approved by the cabinet, sets the gasoline price for these points at 22 cents wholesale, the same as Victoria. Under the original order the price was 23 cents there.

JUNIOR CHAMBER SUPPORTS DRIVE

"The Salvation Army renders a very valuable service both to the public and to the men of the services. The people of Victoria, without exception, are fully supporting the War Services Campaign of the Salvation Army in their efforts to raise $20,000 here," said Leslie Osborne, in reply to a letter sent by the Army to the Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce. The letter was read at the general meeting of the chamber last night. The letter, asking the co-operation of the Junior Chamber in the War Services Campaign, also asked: "What do you think of the Salvation Army?" Mr. Osborne's reply fully supported any action taken by the Army here.

A letter from the Port Moody Junior Board of Trade, criticizing the lack of road signs at city limit entrances, was read to the members of the Junior Chamber, and it was decided to send this body a reply thanking them for their letter. It was decided that road signs at city limits of Victoria were adequate and that the Junior Chamber of Commerce need not go into the matter.

A series of resolutions passed at the annual convention of the British Columbia Junior Chamber of Commerce were read by Captain Norman Foster, secretary, to the members. A committee of members will be selected to deal with the resolutions at a later date. Thomas Sturgess, president of the local Junior Chamber of Commerce, who was chairman at last night's meeting, had already reported to the members on the convention. Two suggestions arising out of a short discussion on one of the resolutions, that yellow crosslines be painted on centre lines in a school or speed limit zone, and that school signs be repainted during the summer holidays, were brought up by T. E. Watkins. These matters were referred to the traffic committee of the Junior Chamber.

Red Cross Aids Protection Plan

A plan of co-operation under which the Canadian Red Cross will divide responsibility for air raid precautions with the Provincial Civil Protection Committee was drafted at a series of conferences culminating in Victoria yesterday.

W. J. Cairns, assistant national commissioner of the Red Cross, discussed details with Major S. F. M. Moodie, civilian protection officer, and E. W. Griffith, chairman of the committee. At a later meeting application of the plan in the Victoria area was arranged.

Under the scheme the Red Cross has agreed, in case of a disaster, to provide shelter and clothing for victims, to take care of emergency feeding, to establish a registration and record office in order to keep track of persons involved, and to mobilize skilled social workers for relief purposes.

The civilian protection organization will take care of first aid, engineering problems, special police and fire aid, anti-gas work and other emergency features.

To perfect the arrangement J. Grant Gunn, chairman of the provincial disaster relief committee of the Red Cross, has been named liaison officer between the two organizations.

"We are very grateful for this generous offer of help from the Red Cross," said Major Moodie. "This now rounds out the air raid precautions organization."

Representatives of the two groups discussed the detailed application of the scheme in Victoria. Present with Mr. Cairns and Major Moodie were Brig.-Gen. J. G. Austin, J. G. Corry Wood and Lieut.-Col. Worsley, for the Red Cross; Capt. W. Ellis, civilian protection officer; W. F. Loveland, chief warden; Dr. Richard Felton, medical health officer, and H. W. Edwardson of St. John Ambulance Association, for the protection committee.

School Strike Is Supported

Parents of children attending Royal Oak and Prospect Lake Schools last night decided they would promote a strike among the schoolchildren rather than proceed with the consolidation change proposed by the Saanich School Board which will bring about the closing of these two schools.

At a meeting in McMorran's Pavilion, Cordova Bay, presided over by A. C. Lefler, they agreed to go as far as they could in preventing the board effecting what the parents considered to be a detrimental change in the educational system of the municipal schools.

They also supported a suggestion that a court injunction should be obtained to prevent the board carrying out its proposal in order that the whole issue might be placed before the courts and thoroughly aired.

The action of the board in its treatment of committees of ratepayers who had interviewed it on the subject came in for criticism from Councillor John Oliver, Ward Five, who attended last night's meeting. The fact the delegations had been limited in their appearances gave the councillor the impression the trustees did not intend to listen to the parents in the first place.

H. G. Robinson told the meeting people were planning to leave the Royal Oak and Prospect Lake school districts because they were to be without schools. "This is depreciating our property values and I, for one, will certainly appeal to the court of revision for an assessment reduction if this thing goes through," he said.

Mr. Lefler said he thought the council should have more control over the school board expenditures. In this instance it was going to cost the board about $10,000 a year to provide transportation under the consolidation," he said.

Councillor Oliver explained the trustees had complete control over their own expenditures.

E. V. Goddard suggested the only alternative of the parents was to call a strike or go to the courts.

The question of financing a court action was discussed briefly, Robert Sutcliffe feeling the issue was of sufficient importance to those concerned that they would willingly dig into their own pockets.

"It's going to cost plenty in the long run if we don't fight it," said Mr. Robinson.

Mr. Sutcliffe could not see where the change over would mean any improvement in the educational system. The board was closing two of the larger schools nearer the centres of population to have the children attend smaller schools at Keating, Saanichton and Brentwood which were much further out. Facilities at Royal Oak and Prospect Lake were much better than the other schools, he said.

"I'm sure if Mr. Gray (Trustee Nat Gray, chairman of the board) lived down here we'd have all the schools in the district," commented a woman.

"I'm certainly not going to make my two young sons get up at 5.30 or 5.45 every morning to meet a bus to travel miles to school every morning," said Mr. Goddard.

Further action was left over pending a joint meeting on the issue between the school board and council. It was pointed out certain members of the council were sympathetic to the wishes of the parents, and if the joint meeting was arranged these councillors would present their views.

Junior League Has Given $2,190 to Solarium

At Annual Meeting Last Night Voted $1,800 to Essential Equipment, Etc.; Mrs. Howard Sturrock Again President.

The Queen Alexandra Solarium Junior League brought its first busy year of existence to a spectacular close last evening by donating $1,800 towards the purchase of equipment and the maintenance of cots at the Mill Bay institution, thus bringing the sum total of material assistance to the Solarium since their inception to $2,190.18.

Last night's donations included $1,000 towards the installation of a physiotherapy pool and pump which will cost $1,500, and whose need was described by Dr. Glenn Simpson; another $100 was voted for tonsillectomy equipment, $100 to the treatment room, $500 for maintenance of cots and $100 for painting the veranda.

TREATMENT TANK

Dr. Simpson spoke to the meeting, explaining the uses of the tank, which will be tiled, and approximately 12 by 20 feet, with a depth of four and a half feet, tapering to two and a half feet and heated to 90 degrees. He said the use of salt water was preferable, as buoyancy helped the patient in carrying out the treatment. It will be built as an indoor-outdoor pool. In summer the children exercise in the open air. The tank will accommodate two patients at a time. Mrs. J. S. McCannell and Miss Sweeting were appointed a committee to work with Dr. Simpson in details of installation of the tank.

RAISED $2,797

During the year $2,797.16 was raised and expenses amounted to $500.89 it was shown in the treasurer's report presented by Mrs. F. Waring. Since January 29 the sum of $390.18 was spent in equipment at the Solarium as follows: Mattresses $31.75, china $67.84, abduction frame $30, trap trolleys $50, decorations $17.71, a cabinet for treatment room $41.25, cast cutter $30.26, treatment room $99.82, transilluminator set $12.80 and national controller $8.75. The bank balance read $1,906.09, and with the voting of the $1,800 last evening, the league will have a bank balance of approximately $100 to start the new season in September.

The president, Mrs. McCullough, outlined the activities to raise the money, which included a white elephant sale, Valentine's tea at the home of Mrs. W. Nichol, bunny ball at the Empress Hotel, Meistersingers' concert, tag day, April shower of dimes and a garden party at the home of Mrs. W. Curtis Sampson, sale of plants and a tea at the home of Mr. T. Takahashi, a contest and the income from the penny boxes in stores and banks.

Waring, treasurer; Miss Vivienne Pennock, corresponding secretary, and Miss Doreen Cattroll, recording secretary.

TRY A LIQUID SEASONING
For Your Next MEAT LOAF
WHEN making your next meat loaf we suggest that you try this new recipe given to us by a mother noted for her cooking. She uses minced beef, bread crumbs, a little grated onion, some salt and pepper and a teaspoonful of H. P. Sauce. "In my opinion," says this lady, "it is the H. P. Sauce which gives this meat loaf such unusually delicious flavour." That's why H. P. Sauce may be called a liquid seasoning for meat loaves, meat pies, soups, stews, gravies, macaroni and many other dishes.
This thick, fruity sauce has great flavouring strength. Only a little is required in cooking or when served with meat, fish, fowl, salads, sandwiches and so on. H. P. is the Empire's Appetizer from Old England.

Want Suppression Of City's Vice

"This meeting of women representative of the whole community urges the enforcement in Victoria of that section of the Criminal Code dealing with the suppression of commercialized prostitution."

This resolution was passed unanimously at a meeting held at the Y.W.C.A. yesterday afternoon under the auspices of the Local Council of Women, after a large and representative gathering had listened to an address by Dr. G. Donald Williams, head of veneral disease control for the Provincial Department of Health.

"Why can we get nowhere in Victoria, when, after my department—and I speak solely from the health point of view and not from the moral aspect—has spent $28,000 in the last three years, in the control of veneral disease, it is the second most common communicable disease in Victoria?" asked Dr. Williams. He urged the women to try to find the answer for themselves, by making inquiries as to where and who were the interests behind commercialized prostitution in this city.

Dr. Williams warned the meeting against the propaganda which would be waged by the interests immediately any attempt was made to launch a campaign against them. Under such propaganda he listed the false "red herrings" of the alleged danger of scattering such women, quote the figures and facts to show that the incidence of veneral disease and its dread effects had been substantially lowered in communities which had closed bawdy houses. He also branded as false the suggestion that the closing of such houses endangered innocent women and children, saying that it had been proved beyond a doubt to the contrary.

In answer to a question, the speaker read the section of the Criminal Code which provides for penalties, not only to the inmates of such houses, but also to the real estate agents, landlords, lessors, procurers and others interested in their operation.

The feeling of the meeting was crystallized into the resolution, and it will be referred to the citizenship committee of the Local Council for immediate action.

START THE DAY RIGHT WITH ALL-BRAN MUFFINS

●All-Bran Muffins are breakfast favorites in thousands of homes. Many diets lack sufficient bulk and just that extra "bulk" is required by many to keep "regular". All-Bran Muffins are a tempting treat and so easy to make.

BASIC BRAN MUFFIN RECIPE

2 tablespoons shortening
¼ cup sugar
1 egg
1 cup Kellogg's All-Bran
¾ cup milk
1 cup flour
½ teaspoon salt
2½ teaspoons baking powder

Cream shortening and sugar thoroughly; add egg and beat until creamy. Stir in All-Bran and milk; let soak until most of moisture is taken up. Sift flour with salt and baking powder; add to first mixture and stir only until flour disappears. Fill greased muffin pans three-quarters full and bake in moderately hot oven (400°F.) about 30 minutes.

Yield: 8 large muffins (3 inches in diameter) or 12 small muffins (2¼ inches in diameter).

For the delicious taste and "just right" texture these muffins should have, be sure to use Kellogg's All-Bran, and no other kind. All-Bran provides "bulk" and also supplies intestinal tonic vitamin B_1.

OAKLANDS P.-T.A.

About 70 Oaklands P.-T.A. members attended the meeting held in the school on Friday evening, at which a splendid display of the pupils' work of the year was viewed.

Mrs. R. McInnes presided and Mrs. J. Beckwith of Monteray School was a guest. The association reported that a war certificate of $100 is to be purchased. Work was distributed for the sale of work on November 8. Reports were heard from committee conveners, and from the secretary on the District Council meeting. Mrs. R. McInnes thanked the ladies of Quadra Street and Oaklands district for their help during the recent Red Cross tea. Mrs. Wm. Blair extended the congratulations of the association to Mrs. R. McInnes on her appointment to the provincial executive. Congratulations are to be sent to Grades 4, 5 and 6 Junior Red Cross, who raised the sum of $60 which is to be divided between the Red Cross and the Solarium, also to Grade 3 Junior Red Cross, who collected approximately $14.

In future the Oaklands unit will hold the annual meeting in May instead of November, and an evening meeting will be held each month to enable more fathers to attend.

An enjoyable musical program was followed by a talk by Mr. Hole on industrial arts. The attendance prize was awarded to Mrs. Calvert. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting by Mrs. Wilson and the social committee.

The First Spiritualist Church will hold a silver tea at the home of Mrs. C. P. Milne, 2421 Douglas Street, corner of Bay Street, tomorrow afternoon from 2.30 until 5. There will be several readers.

Raisin Filling

Run two cups seeded raisins through the food chopper and mix with ½ cup water, ¾ cup sugar and the grated rind of a small lemon. Heat to the boiling point, stirring all the time. Add 1 teaspoon cornstarch mixed with a little cold water, and boil for one minute. Remove from the fire and cool before spreading on the cake. This may also be used as a raisin tart filling. Note: Rinse the raisins with a little cold water before chopping and they will not form a sticky mass.

Over 100,000 Have Offered Homes to Refugees

The following statement has been made by the Voluntary Registration of Canadian Women, 1203 Montreal Trust Building, Toronto:

"Today, when an emergency situation with regard to refugees has arisen, over 100,000 Canadian women stand ready, pledged to take refugee children into their homes. This is no casual impulsive gesture. These thousands of women offered their homes months ago. Their names and addresses in communities throughout Canada can be selected at a moment's notice. Many details of their home are already on file and give a preliminary picture for those who may be put in charge of any movement to bring out refugee children and to place them in Canadian homes.

"This impressive and thoroughly organized effort shows what the women of Canada can do for refugees and is only one facet of the important results obtained by the Voluntary Registration of Canadian Women. The registration conducted last fall was organized by women, and completed by the women themselves, in the face of much opposition and with absolutely no help from the government.

"The women realized that in an emergency this information must be available—and available immediately! And so, instead of standing around and complaining about what the government was or was not doing, they went ahead themselves—to organize for the service of their country should the need arise. Today the names and addresses of these thousands of homes, with much other valuable information, are available through the headquarters of the Voluntary Registration of Canadian Women in Toronto. Senator Iva Fallis, the national chairman, and Miss Margaret Hyndman, K.C., director of organization, have announced that they have been offered to those who may need them.

"While it is not the function of the V.R.C.W. to place refugees, they have done an important job in the registration of homes available—ready to be used immediately.

VOLUNTARY ASSISTANCE

"The story of this voluntary registration is an impressive one. The actual registration, financing and organization conducted by the women throughout the Dominion, and the monumental task of tabulating the 63 statistics on each of the 250,000 registrations received is a magnificent achievement. For the registration the women came themselves to record what service they could give their country. For the tabulating of the statistics over 5,000 office girls in Toronto gave two nights a week for many weeks to the apparently impossible task.

"Now the emergency has arisen. The need for bringing refugees to Canada from England may be imminent. And Canadian women are ready for it! The information compiled by the V.R.C.W. should be of the greatest value to those working with refugees."

So quick-so much less work
It's so quick and easy to make jams and jellies with Certo. For jam you need give only a one-minute to two-minute full rolling boil . . . for jellies only a half-minute to a minute. As Miss L. Miller, Prizewinner at Vermilion Fair (Alta.) says: "The Certo method is ever so much faster."
More Jam or Jelly
In this extremely short boil very little juice can boil away. So you get up to half again more jam or jelly. "You make more from the same amount of juice, as you do not need to boil it down," writes Mrs. T. O. Farnsworth, Prizewinner at Compton County Fair (Que.).
CERTO is concentrated FRUIT PECTIN . . . the natural jellifying substance extracted from fruit in which it is most abundant.
Fresher Taste and Colour
Owing to the short boil there is no loss of fresh taste or natural colour such as happens in the old-fashioned long boil. Mrs. Mabel Colwell, Prizewinner at Saskatoon Exhibition agrees: "The colour and flavour are much superior," she writes.

Dance Recital Much Enjoyed

Tiny figures from England, Scotland, Ireland, China, Holland, Russia, Bali Bali, Harlem, Spain and Mexico came to life on the stage at the Shrine Auditorium last night when the well-trained young pupils of Mona Jewell presented their annual recital.

The 65 performers gave a most delightful program and the large audience of parents and friends replied with unstinted applause and also lent aid to Protestant Orphanage, proceeds of the recital being donated to that worthwhile institution. In special seats sat the children from the Orphanage and they were thrilled with the pretty dances, the gay music and the colorful costumes.

In one group were the three-year-olds — adorable wee things that frolicked across the stage with youthful whimsy and abandon.

In the gay pageant of youth were fairies, gypsies, skaters, military tap dances, "the wedding of Jack and Jill," ballerinas and toe dancers.

The Pearson Sisters, pupils of Catherine Hamilton, A. T. C. M. who accompanied all the dancers, were heard in piano trios—Schubert's "Marche Militaire" and Manuel Liebich's "Musical Vox Caprice," which they executed with poise and understanding.

Seven-year-old Joan Amison was heard in song and during an intermission played a violin solo with remarkable knowledge. She is a pupil of Mrs. Burdon-Murphy.

Taking part in the dance recital were Valeria McAllister, Beverly Bugslag, Joan Amison, Elaine Impey, Cherie Malcolm, Jeune Yates, Marjorie Graham, Jerry Long, Maureen Renouf, Betty Webb, Eileen and Joyce Foster, Shirley Jarvis, Peggy Palin, Marjorie Cross, Mary Kennedy, Nancy Pearce, Myrna McDonald, Betty Woodward, Christie Boyd, Shirley Rorison, Berlene Vance, Robin Grant, Gerry Kennedy, Diane Christensen, Joan MacDonald, Pat Purdy, Joy Mitchell, Barbara Thoms, Joan Lilley, Barbara Stewart, Gennell Gurr, Shirley Rowe, Joan Long, Shirley Jarvis, Jo Ann Briggs, Ena Impey, Beverley Barker, Shirley Cammiade, Margaret Mitchell, Barbara Frankham, Gay Grant, Helen Warwick, Joyce Fenwick, Elinor Hill, Shirley Holdridge, Joyce Foster, Jerry McDonald, Joan Cromack, Maureen and Wilma Renouf, Donna McCabe, Evelyn Rogers, Beverley Taylor, Charley Cammiade, Marjorie Graham, Margaret Semple, Hugh Randy, Ena Foyer, Annette Cole, Gerry Kennedy, Gwendolyn Pready, Joan Cockburn, Marjorie Cross.

Diplomas Awarded At Sunday School

Certificates for good conduct, proficiency and regular attendance were awarded to 200 boys and girls of St. Mary's Sunday School by Dean Spencer H. Elliott, before a large gathering of parents and friends at the Sunday School's annual exercises held on Friday evening. The boys and girls who had received 90 per cent of the possible number of marks were awarded the diplomas.

The Dean, in a short address to the pupils, urged them to do their best during their Sunday school careers so that they may give of their services to the school during later years.

An average attendance of 306 boys and girls and 40 officers and teachers, was reported by W. Moore, Sunday school superintendent. He also mentioned the improved spirit of co-operation among those who were concerned in the work. Archdeacon A. E. de L. Nunns, rector of the church, spoke briefly on the value of special services for the young people and children of the church.

Following the presentation of the diplomas, a musical program including dances, vocal solos and instrumental solos was presented by the young people. The following took part in the program: Marjorie Cross, Robert Byne, Joan Bessborough, Theo Lipsey, Wilma Renouf, Maureen Renouf, June Yates, Rodney Newton, Dickie Moore, Pamela Newton, Lorraine Roberts, Margaret Wilfert, Joan Challoner, Elizabeth Money, Peggy Moorehouse, Rosemary Money, Yvonne Rose, Kathleen Keeble, Helen Bell-Irving, Arthur Watson, George Yates, Dorothy Bayne, Edward Stewart, Barbara Gordon, Marjorie Gibbs, Margaret Bracken, Gloria Tubman, Olive Fox, Betty Richardson, Dorita Palin, Miss Pite and Miss Burd, the latter two persons being class leaders.

After the musical program, a short address was given by the rector of the church.

Universal Service Urged By Manion

OTTAWA (CP) — Hon. R. J. Manion, former leader of the Conservative Party who resigned following his personal defeat in Fort William in the Dominion election, believes that "everyone should be for conscription for home defence" and he urges that Canadian preparedness be accelerated.

"Stop talking," he said in a statement made public here. "Act, for we face the worst danger the Empire and the world have ever faced.

"Institute universal military training of all men of military age. It takes months to make soldiers. Let us start today, or we may be in the position of poor France. A couple of hours' training four days a week for the employed, and regular training for the unemployed will benefit all of them morally and physically—and most of them need it.

"Get our industrial plants at work at once on anti-aircraft guns, planes, tanks, artillery and ammunition. We have none now. . . . Men cannot fight machines except with machines and training.

"If Canada and the United States carry out these suggestions Hitler will not attack us. He understands force only. . . . In Heaven's name let us awake before it is too late.

"Conscription, some will say. So it is for Canadian defence of her own shores."

SASKATOON VOTE

SASKATOON (CP)—"The absolute and immediate conscription of Canada's resources of wealth, industry and manpower and complete organization and utilization of these resources by the government to meet the present crisis" are urged in a resolution passed by the Rotary Club here.

The mover of the resolution, J. H. Sturdy, secretary of the Saskatchewan Teachers' Federation, said the resolution was not designed to criticize the government but rather to strengthen its hand in demonstrating that the citizenry of Canada would stand solidly and loyally behind the government, no matter how drastic its actions.

REGINA (CP)—Members of the Metropolitan United Church, one of Regina's largest charges of that denomination, last night accepted the resignation of Rev. F. E. Vipond, after some members had charged Mr. Vipond held pacifist views.

Limping Limerick

No. 3741256

There once was a man named Curtis Kent,
Whose wife never read an ad VERT isement;
Mr. Kent said, "My dear,
You are foolish, I fear,
Not to read the advertisements and thus learn where to look for the best values when you go shopping"; but his wife was not quite bright and she never did find out what Curtis meant!

• • •

That last line got slightly out of hand. But the point is. INTELLIGENT women read the advertisements and thus save weary footsteps and precious pennies every day, by shopping at the right places at the right times!

Godoy Would Run

Rob Louis of Return Fight

NEW YORK (AP)—The Arturo Godoy-Joe Louis heavyweight championship bout in Yankee Stadium Thursday night offers the most interesting possibilities if the Chilean croucher whips Lolus—a job he didn't accomplish last February, and doesn't figure to come any closer to doing this time, if you believe those 1 to 5 odds on the Bomber.

Let's suppose he does. In that event, there's a strong possibility fistiana's richest trinket will be put on the line outside of the United States for the first time since Primo Carnera turned back the mild bid of Paulino Uzcudun in Rome seven years back.

The suggestion in a wink by Al Weill, Godoy's manager was that, instead of tangling with Louis again within 90 days, as he has already signed to do, Godoy will be willing to "blow" a $25,000 forfeit, ship to South America on the next boat and defend the crown in Argentina against such fellows as say, Albero Lovell or maybe bicycle Bob Pastor.

Men like large Eddie Mead and Liverpool Jimmy Johnston, predict the ex-Chilean fisherboy is going to mean anything but a pleasant evening for Louis. Mead is positive the heavyweight crown is going to take a boat ride to South America.

Promoter Mike Jacobs said the advance sale had nearly reached $50,000, and predicted the fight was a cinch to go over the $150,000.

WILLIAM LAWSON LITTLE'S niche in the history of golf was assured even had he never won the United States Open championship.

Neither Robert Tyre Jones nor any other in the 400 years of golf equalled the 31 consecutive victories at match play which Lawson Little required in 1934-5 to become the first man to win both the British and American amateur titles in successive seasons.

But once he set his mind on it, it was inevitable that Little would bag the United States Open.

There never was a more worthy or classier champion, or one with a finer background.

Little stands for everything golf stands for. He also gives the professionals a social touch.

He was ofered $6,000 a year and all expenses to remain an amateur and sell a line that would not affect his status.

"I couldn't have looked an amateur in the eye had I accepted the position," asserts the son of the retired army surgeon.

Little also grew tired of beating amateurs. It no longer was fun.

So he went all the way . . . cast his lot with the money players.

Because of a rule requiring a member to have served at clubs for five years, Little is the first professional wearing the United States Open crown to be ineligible for the P.G.A. championship. Influential people went to bat for him, but the P.G.A. did not even reply to his application for membership.

The result is he will broadcast the matches at Hershey, Pa., August 26-September 1. He will make no effort to have the association waive its rule, which it should do for the good of itself and its own tournament. The P.G.A. should be happy to welcome a man like Lawson Little to its ranks.

Galleries always have had a wrong slant on Little, who was considered high hat during his amateur days. The handsome Stanford graduate is in reality a splendid mixer, extremely well liked by intimates.

Although a striking figure in action, Little hasn't been exactly popular on courses because he insists on playing the ball instead of the gallery.

Walter Hagen says Little is the first golfer he ever saw who could concentrate eight hours at a stretch.

Because of his screeching drives of 300 yards and more, Little is pictured as a giant. As a matter of fact, he stands no more than 5 feet 10 inches and weighed 179 pounds when he sank his final putt in repelling Gene Sarazen in the playoff at Cleveland's Canterbury the other afternoon.

Little wears a 15½ collar and has rather small hands. He obtains his tremendous power from the thrust of his exceptionally broad shoulders.

In addition to his football physique, Little has a cool and methodical brain, and is as game as they come.

Lawson Little, who will be 30 years old June 23, is vastly more than a one-tournament champion.

He's done it before.

He'll do it again.

Western Grid Play Will Open Aug. 30

CALGARY (CP) — Winnipeg Blue Bombers will come to Calgary August 30 to open the 1940 three-team schedule of the Western Interprovincial Football Union, it was announced yesterday by John Thompson, president.

Twelve games are scheduled this season, each of the three teams, Calgary Bronks, the Bombers and Regina Roughriders, making two trips to each of the other two cities.

In view of the success of floodlight games during former seasons the home teams have been given the option of playing the games either Friday night, Saturday afternoon or Saturday night where week-end games are scheduled.

DEMPSEY DISPLAYS OLD FORM—For the first time in seven years the Manassa Mauler, left, donned gloves publicly when he entered the ring with Arturo Godoy at a Carmel, N.Y., training camp. Godoy meets Louis in a return heavyweight championship bout at New York Thursday night.

Navy Hits Stride

Sets Baseball Pace

Rated the weak sisters, when the season opened, Navy ball club today was resting in first place in the campaign for the Rithet Cup. At the Athletic Park last night the sailors marked up their third straight victory, an 8 to 7 triumph over the Tillicum Athletics.

Standings find the Navy in the driver's seat with three victories and one defeat. Athletics are second with two and two and Pitzer & Nex and Eagles are tied for third, each with one win and a pair of losses.

Since they opened their drive for the lead, Navy players have defeated each of the other three clubs in turn.

Although it was not until the eighth inning that they were able to push across the winning run the Navy were always in the ball game. They scored two runs in each of the first, fourth, sixth and eighth innings. Athletics scored one in the first, two in the second, another pair in the fourth, one in the fifth and their final marker in the ninth.

Navy sluggers collected 12 hits from the offerings of Louis Leonard, including a home run over the centre field fence by Porter in the first inning with one man on the sacks. Ginger Vreeland, on the mound for the Navy, allowed eight hits. Leonard struck out seven and Vreeland a pair.

Some smart outfield fielding was seen during the night with Porter and Milne of the Navy being credited with five putouts each.

Short score follows:

Athletics	7	8	2
Navy	8	12	3

Batteries—Leonard and Kuwabara; Vreeland and Grover.

Pancho and Dado Battle to Draw

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Little Pancho, Filippino fighter, fought a fast 10-round draw here last night with his countryman, Little Dado, whose world flyweight title, as recognized by the National Boxing Association and the California Athletic Commission, was at stake.

The little warriors, each weighing 111 pounds, filled the air with gloves all through the fight, but inflicted little damage on each other.

Neither was in distress at any time, and they finished the 10th round banging away at each other as the bell rang.

Sinks Dodo in Golf Contest

The first hole-in-one of the Queen Alexandra Solarium contest now in progress afternoon and evening at Macdonald Park, was made last night by Noel Morgan, popular local athlete, well-known for his soccer and baseball activities.

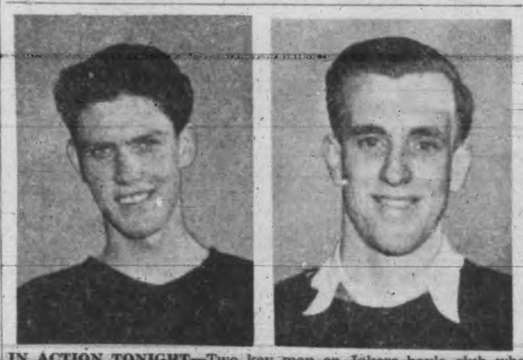
LEE ORR SCORES ANOTHER TRIUMPH

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—The Pacific Coast Conference, putting on a superb display of individual brilliance and team strength, handed the western conference all-star track team a crushing defeat last night in Northwestern University's Dyche stadium.

The west coast athletes piled up a total of 96 points to 40 for the big 10.

Lee Orr, crack sprint and hurdle ace from Vancouver, B.C., running under the colors of Washington State, won the 440-yard dash. His time was 47.7 seconds.

Boyd Brown of Oregon set a new javelin record when he tossed the spear 232 feet 7 inches. The old mark set in the 1939 meet was 215 feet 1 inch.



IN ACTION TONIGHT—Two key men on Jokers boxla club who will go on the floor tonight at the Sports Centre in league play against James Bay, are Morley Maggs, ace goaltender, left, and Reg. Allan, fast-stepping forward, right. The game will start at 8.30 and will be preceded by a junior clash between Douglas Tire and Owl Drug at 7.

It will be the largest entry since the tournament was started four years ago.

The committee in charge of arrangements for this year's contests is under the chairmanship of Charles Banfield, King's Printer, and is composed of Bob Morrison, Ollie Corbett, Red Lawson and Jack Bacon.

Arrangements have been under way for some time. The first players will tee off at 11. Following play, a dinner will be held in the clubhouse.

Defending champion, Rom Knott of the Times, will be on hand also winners of the first two years, Doug Ritchie of the Government Printing Bureau, and Jack Caddell of the Times.

Adanacs Drop Second Clash

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP)—New Westminster Adanacs retained their leadership in the Intercity Box Lacrosse League by a narrow margin today, hard pressed by the up-and-coming Richmond Farmers.

Adanacs, Canadian champions, absorbed their second defeat in a row last night when set back 14 to 11 by Vancouver Burrards. They are only one point ahead of Farmers, whose chance of taking over top spot depends on the outcome of a game tonight with the cellar-dwelling Salmonbellies and another Thursday with Burrards.

Adanacs take on North Shore Indians Friday.

Adanacs got away to a good start last night and by the end of the first quarter led 6 to 2. Burrards, however, warmed up for the second quarter and evened the score at 7 to 7 by half time.

Vancouver moved ahead 11 to 7 by the end of the third quarter and held their margin by setting up a tight defence for the final stanza.

Garnie Carter was high scorer for Adanacs with three goals, while Buck Berry led the winners with three goals and an assist.

Richard Arlen Beaten

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Richard Arlen's complaint that William Tate, 30, attacked and beat him yesterday at the Wilshire Country Club Golf course led police to detain Tate today on suspicion of extortion.

Police Officer T. F. Mellott said Arlen told him that 10 weeks ago Tate met him as he stepped from an airplane at the Metropolitan Airport and used a pistol to force him into an automobile.

"He kept me prisoner for more than an hour, accusing me of alienating his wife's affections and demanding $1,000 so he could get out of town," Mellott quoted the actor.

"I don't even know his wife. To avoid trouble, I put former Detective Lieut. Frank (Lefty) James to work on the case instead of reporting the incident to the police."

Bud Ward Will Face Big Test

SEATTLE (AP) — In the clubhouse today they will tell you Bud Ward should retain his Pacific Northwest open golf championship in the three-day tournament opening on the Sand Point course tomorrow.

But the Ward supporters admit he will be faced with plenty of competition in the 72 holes of medal play.

Among the leading contenders for his crown will be the Zimmerman brothers of Portland, Al and Emery. Emery last week-end won the Utah open championship for the second consecutive year to duplicate the feat of his brother the preceding two years.

More than 40 pros and amateurs are expected to compete for the title.

Ken Black, Canadian amateur champion, and Freddie Wood, the clever little Vancouver, B.C., pro, may be down from Canada, while Chuck Congdon of Tacoma, Ken Tucker of Everett and Neil Christian of Yakima, another former northwest champion, will be some of the more prominent professionals seeking the laurels.

HIGHWAY OPENING

Official opening of the Big Bend Highway, last link in the trans-Canada Highway section of British Columbia, has been timed for 11 in the morning on June 29, the Public Works Department announced today.

A brief ceremony will take place on the bridge at Columbia River crossing, about halfway between Revelstoke and Golden.

Hon. T. A. Crerar, Minister of Resources, and Premier Pattullo are listed as the representatives respectively for the federal and provincial governments, which combined on the project.

Cricket Tomorrow

Wednesday League cricket tomorrow at Beacon Hill will bring together Spencers and Five C's, starting at 2.30.

Five C's line-up follows: Lea, Petch, Fletcher, Webb-Bowen, Ware, Dyment, Hoggarth, Vaughan, Bolton, Jones and another.

'Royal Visit' Rose Feature of Show

At the summer flower show in the Willows next Friday and Saturday under auspices of the Victoria Horticultural Society, there will be a gorgeous array of flowers of all kinds.

The show will feature roses, and among the newer varieties will be "Royal Visit," the rose which was introduced last year in honor of the visit of the King and Queen, by H. M. Eddie and Sons Ltd. of Sardis.

Other new varieties introduced during the past few years will also be shown.

The Palmer Gardens of Cowichan Bay will have a fine display of lilies and other flowers from their garden, and there will also be other large displays from local gardens.

The secretary, D. D. McTavish, is now receiving entries and, if anyone wishes a catalogue or further information, he will be pleased to hear from them.

It is possible to ascertain an elephant's height from the track it makes. By multiplying the circumference of the track by two, the approximate height of the animal at the shoulders can be determined.

Take Five Straight Battles

Since Billy Southworth ascended to the managership last week St. Louis Cardinals have won all their five games. But the Cards were in such desperate circumstances this spectacular streak hasn't been good enough to get them out of the National League second division. They created quite a commotion yesterday by blockading Brooklyn Dodgers 3 to 1 and enabling Cincinnati Reds to regain first place.

The Reds reaped a 6 to 2 triumph at Philadelphia to take a full game jump over the Dodgers and also shove the Phillies into the National League's cellar.

New York Giants got back on the winning track and moved within a game of second place when Paul Dean continued his mastery over Chicago Cubs by a 2 to 1 score. The durable Dean permitted no hits until the fifth and just six in the game.

Boston Bees benefited from two six-hit performances by Bill Posedel and Al Piechota in sweeping a doubleheader from Pittsburgh Pirates 5 to 3 and 5 to 1. The American League had an idle day.

COAST LEAGUE

The Seattle Rainiers seem to be maintaining their lead in the Coast League by taking on the most threatening teams one by one, as they challenge the lead.

They climbed to the top of the circuit four weeks ago by downing the second-place Oakland club. Since then they have remained in front despite the fact they have engaged first division outfits while Oakland and San Diego, their strongest rivals, have had a crack at lower division teams.

With the season hitting the half-way mark this week, the Sacramento Solons appeared in the upper division, but they, too, must face the Rainiers. The two teams open a series of seven games at Seattle tonight. Sacramento jumped from fifth place to third last week when they defeated Hollywood five games out of seven while Seattle whipped San Diego by the same margin.

Oakland, number two club of the league, tangles with another lower bracket team when it engages the next-to-the-last Los Angeles Angels in the southern city this week. Oakland won the odd game in a series of seven from Portland's cellar club last week and Los Angeles likewise toppled San Francisco four games to three.

The San Diego Padres, who have slipped to fourth place, invade the northwest in an effort to regain their losses by mixing with the trailing Portland Beavers.

Hollywood and San Francisco, in fifth and sixth places, respectively, battle in the bay area city. In a previous meeting of the two teams, Hollywood won four games out of seven.

SAANICH SCHOOOL CONSOLIDATION

To the Editor:—The residents of Ward Five resent the manner in which the Saanich School Board has acted regarding the matter of consolidating of grades in the five schools in Wards Five and Six. The school board can not honestly call it school consolidation in the first place for there is no one school mentioned to accommodate all the grades; each of the five public schools having two rooms each. It would be as well if the public were to hear the strictly true and unbiased facts.

The school board has decided that the children of Ward Five, numbering 170, be gathered into buses and taken to four separate schools in Ward Six, namely Saanichton, Keating, West Saanich and Mt. Newton High, the first three at present having a combined attendance of less than 100. These 270 pupils then are to be distributed in four groups of two grades each among these schools. Now it was acknowledged by the board—except that Royal Oak had a modern sanitary system, city water and easy access to health and fire facilities—there was not much choice between any of the schools, as all of the buildings needed some repairs, all being over 25 years old. It was brought up by the ratepayers, though, that one of the Ward Six schools had an inadequate supply of water, and the grounds of another was decidedly lower than the road surface.

Why then should the board be allowed to take a majority of the pupils to a minority district? Most of us feel, and rightly I think, that it must be for the personal gain of some of its members.

The distinct disadvantages of such a system are that some children will have to stay in a school bus for more than an hour. From Royal Oak to Saanichton going the West Road stopping for pupils on the way, there will be children that will travel about 20 miles each day. In winter as motorists know the roads farther north are more dangerous, there usually being more snow north than south of the outer wards.

Another drawback to this long bus system is, should an epidemic of flu or any other communicable disease start in any district it will rapidly spread to everyone within at least a 25 mile circuit. And lastly in dealing with the long bus transportation some children will be obliged to walk home in darkness after getting off the bus during the shorter days of winter.

Why should not we of Royal Oak and Prospect Lake, if we have to change our present system, consolidate our classes having two grades in each of the four classrooms and the extra building at Royal Oak could be used for manual arts or physical training; and let the three smaller schools farther north do the same.

Another and very strong argument against closing Royal Oak and Prospect Lake schools will be readily recognized by the Island Publicity Bureau. Is it to the advantage of any community to have dwellings or schools standing empty and deserted? We want folks to come to Saanich and really enjoy its wonderful scenery, we want some of these people to some back again and buy their homes and reside in this "Garden of the Island."

If the plan of the school board goes through there will be a stretch of at least 12 miles between operating schools along scenic routes to Mr. Butchart's gardens or on the East Road to Sanichton. Will not this give our tourists and everyone else the impression that this is a ghost town or deserted village through which they are passing.

HOROSCOPE

Wednesday, June 19

Averse aspects dominate today which may be conducive to restlessness and discontent. From the weather to the daily occupation, nothing may be right to the sensitive person who will reflect the world's distress.

Mentalities may be influenced by planetary influences that encourage secrecy and even deceit. In the family there may be lack of frankness in dealing with domestic problems. The young may appear lazy when they are really merely unable to engage in occupations that they like. As the season develops unwise love affairs will be prevalent. The economic factor will be overlooked by many who enter into hasty marriage.

As the war in Europe continues it will become more apparent each week that the people who are asked to give up their lives by the totalitarian countries are reluctant to fight and that their hearts are not in the strife.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of benefits of many sorts. Relatives will be in close accord and the elderly will be generous.

Children born on this day probably will be clever, frank and kindly. These subjects of The Twins may be extraordinarily talented and energetic.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—Less than a year ago I married a man with whom I thought I would be very happy, but things have not worked out as we planned. To begin with, we promised always to be sweethearts to each other and he has forgotten that. Then our expenses are greater than we expected.

So I started to work again, after having worked nine long years, but I wouldn't mind if things had come right again, but they haven't. We are continually in debt. My husband spends his salary before he makes it. Up to date he hasn't bought me so much as a pair of stockings since we have been married, and he rails at me because I won't give him what little money I make.

Also, my husband is as cold as steel and doesn't appreciate a thing I do for him. I am so discouraged. What can I do?

ANN.

Answer: Marriage doesn't often work out the way optimistic young people plan it, Ann. They expect the impossible of it and that is why they are so disappointed.

You expected, for instance, always to be sweethearts, always to thrill at each other's presence and to find it wonderful to be together. Custom stales everything, alas, in this dull old world, and you can't have palpitation of the heart at a footstep that you hear 365 times a year. Nor can you get much kick out of kisses after they have become a matter of habit and duty. So that is disappointment No. 1.

Disappointment No. 2 is when you find you can't live on bread and cheese and kisses and that you are just as hungry after marriage as you were before marriage, and that it takes three times as much for two people to live on married as it did when they lived at home with their families.

And disappointment No. 3 to the wife is when she finds out that her husband takes her for granted and regards her as a useful piece of household furniture instead of a lady love, and that he doesn't throw fits of gratitude over everything she does.

DOROTHY DIX.

What you get for your money in the purchase of a New Car is FAR, FAR more important that what you pay. But for the man who must economize on first cost as well as on upkeep the low price of the 1940 CHEVROLET is simply amazing. CREDIT UNIONS AID WAR SAVINGS

Formation of credit unions for the specific purpose of investing in government securities, as a means of assisting the war effort, was suggested by Attorney-General Gordon Wismer today.

"The present European situation has demonstrated as never before the affectiveness of organized effort," the Attorney-General said.

"All Canadians are anxious to see their efforts made most effective. Organized saving and investment in war securities is better than individual sporadic effort.

He said a credit union could be formed with the sole object of investing in Dominion and provincial securities. Any group of people with a sufficient bond of common interest may form a union. When the war is over the union could either wind up or carry on as a regular credit union.

"This need not interrupt the normal function of the credit union, including the proper loans to members," he said. "It is desirable that all business should be carried on normally and to the fullest extent in order that there may be adequate funds in circulation for our national war effort, not overlooking the necessity for provincial financing as well."

Forest Conditions More Hazardous

Increased forest fire hazard in some localities was noted by the provincial forest branch in its weekly report today, but the fire loss so far has been less than half what it was a year ago.

To date the branch has reported 168 fires, compared with 390 in 1939 and 575 in 1938.

Hazardous conditions now prevail in the Vancouver and Nelson districts.

Wanted to Pay Fine to Red Cross

A motorist fined $10 for speeding found little sympathy in City Police Court this morning when he offered to pay the $10 to the Red Cross.

The man pleaded guilty to exceeding 30 miles an hour. He said he was taking some medicine to his ailing wife at the time and admitted he broke the legal speed limit.

When the fine was imposed he said: "I'm paying $15 a month out of my disability pension now, but I am willing to pay this $10 to the Red Cross."

The court ordered payment of the fine to the court officer in the usual way.

Scottish Want More Volunteers

"Recruiting is better, but we still need more men."

This was the word this morning from the Canadian Scottish recruiting office on Government Street.

Announcement from Ottawa of the national registration and mobilization scheme was expected to stir up volunteers for the Scottish who need 500 men to bring them to strength.

"We would like men who come in voluntarily," said a recruiting officer. "They are always the best soldiers and the Scottish wants to maintain its high traditions."

Widening of the recruiting age has already stimulated the enlistment. The units will now take men from 19 to 45. The previous limit was 19 to 35. Only men who make A category will get a chance for overseas service, but those in B and C will be placed in the defence units.

The Scottish has decided to close the officers' mess at the Armories "for the duration," so valuable art treasures are being moved to the provincial archives for safe keeping. One is an oil painting of H.R.H. Princess Mary, colonel-in-chief of the regiment, and another a painting of the late General Sir Arthur Currie. There is also an etching by Caton Woodville depicting the remnants of the regiment marching through Ypres after the second battle in April, 1915. This was presented to the mess by the late W. C. Nichol, former Lieutenant-Governor.

J. Alexander Walker, engineer-secretary of the Vancouver Town Planning Commission, will leave by plane tonight for Ottawa where he will serve with the Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps on inspection of artillery stores. He was given indefinite leave of absence by the Commission.

KIWANIS ENJOY HUMOROUS TALK

Humorous events in his life as a member of the clergy were told by Rev. Canon F. A. P. Chadwick, rector of St. John's Church, to members of the Kiwanis Club at a luncheon held in the Empress Hotel today.

The speaker told the Kiwanians that it was a good sense of humor that was a part of the fighting courage of the British soldier.

A feature of the program was the appearance of Miss Peggy Walton, soprano, who sang "Without a Song" and "Morning Hymn." She was accompanied by Miss Helen Riley.

A message from B. O. Knudsen, international president of the Kiwanis Club, was read by past district governor K. Ferguson to the members. The message spoke of the work of the Kiwanis organization and its application to present-day problems. The message also told of the influence for co-operation and international good will which was fostered by such an organization as Kiwanis.

Darrell W. Spence, president of the local club, who acted as chairman of the meeting, thanked the speaker on behalf of the Kiwanians. He also asked the members to repeat their Kiwanis pledge as a start towards the promotion of Kiwanis Week.

St. Alban's Church picnic will be held Saturday at Elk Lake. Children are asked to be at the church at 10. Buses will leave at 10.30 and return at 6.30. Parents wishing to attend are requested to get in touch with the superintendent.

Thieves entered the Naval Veterans' clubrooms last night and rifled two slot machines and stole a quantity of cigarettes. A city police report said entry was gained by suspending a ladder through a broken skylight.

Theft of $24 in cash from a bureau drawer in a bedroom of her home was reported to city police by Mrs. M. Hall, 2625 Graham Street. The theft was reported last night as having occurred since Saturday.

Attorney-General Wismer said today he will go to Vancouver this afternoon to discuss with veterans their organization of "sixth columns" to combat subversive activity. The plan is to co-ordinate such patriotic actions along orderly lines.

Department of Trade and Industry was advised today W. Lloyd Craig, government representative in Ottawa on war purchasing, will visit the coast during the first week of July to meet manufacturers and businessmen in connection with war supply contracts.

The radio class of the Victoria Short-wave Club scheduled for Wednesday has been postponed till Thursday evening. Classes will then be discontinued till October. The club will hold a beach party at Esquimalt Lagoon Friday evening. Members will meet at the City Hall at 7.30.

Tonight at 8, in the Y.M.C.A. hall, E. W. Abraham will address the Victoria branch of the British-Israel World Federation on "How We Can End the War." Mr Abraham will show that only by getting back to God and putting the principles of His kingdom here on earth can we bring to an end the forces of evil.

James Barclay, convicted yesterday on a charge of wilful damage by breaking three cafe windows on Fisgard Street, was sentenced to 10 days' imprisonment by Magistrate Hall in the City Police Court this morning. The court agreed to clemency after Barclay said he would make restitution to the extent of $36.20.

All accounts having been finally closed, proceeds of the Victoria Firemen's ball held at the Empress Hotel on April 5 were allocated to various charities at a meeting of the Victoria Firemen's Mutual Benefit Society recently. Proceeds were allocated as follows: $100 to the Queen Alexandra Solarium, $50 to the Canadian Red Cross Society, $50 to the Salvation Army war services campaign, and $100 to the French Red Cross. As, owing to the changed situation in France no money can be remitted, the latter donation is being held, pending further decision as to its disposition.

Manning to Aid In Timber Control

Ernest C. Manning, chief forester for B.C., will serve as assistant in this province to H. R. MacMillan, the new timber controller for Canada, it was indicated in government circles today.

Mr. Manning will retain his post with the forest branch. The government, it is understood, will consent to him taking on the extra duties entailed in timber control.

DECISION SOON ON WAR GIFT

The recommendation of Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King on the manner in which Victoria should spend the $10,000 it wishes to contribute to Canada's war effort should reach this city this week, Mayor Andrew McGavin stated today.

The city's offer was left by the mayor with the Prime Minister's personal secretary last week while attending the annual meeting of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities.

"Owing to the unfortunate conditions prevailing in Ottawa through the death of Hon. N. McL. Rogers, Minister of National Defences, and the confusion caused by the entry of Italy into the war, I did not feel it advisable to see the Prime Minister personally on the question," Mayor McGavin explained. 'Mr. R. W. Mayhew, member for Victoria, informed me it would be possible to see Mr. Mackenzie King but that he was exceptionally busy. In view of the conditions, I thought it better to make the approach through his personal secretary.

The mayor reported the conference the best in the history of the federation. The 107 delegates present showed a remarkable unanimity of opinion on the major questions of unemployment, relief, housing, postwar problems and the report on Dominion-provincial relations, he said.

He expressed appreciation of the dynamic character of Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia of New York City, guest of honor at the convention, and stated his pro-Allied views were warmly received by the conference.

As a member of the resolutions committee and from the floor of the convention, Mayor McGavin supported a resolution from western mayors seeking amendment of the passport proposals suggested for interchange of visitors between Canada and the United States.

The mayor flew to and from the convention.

The sum of $565 was collected by the Canadian Pensioners' Association tag day Saturday.

Tax on Hospital Accommodation

A substantial increase in the number of patients admitted to the Royal Jubilee Hospital during 1939 gives evidence of the need for the new wing, which is now under construction, directors of the hospital stated in appealing to citizens to support the canvass now being made of private citizens, and the appeal for public subscriptions to be made during the week commencing July 7.

Compared with 1938, last year the Royal Jubilee Hospital admitted 103 more patients, the total for the 12 months being 5,641. Every effort, however, has been made by the staff and directors to cope with this increase by doing everything possible to reduce the average days' stay per patient. Despite the increased number of patients, the average days' stay amounted to 15 as compared with 23 in 1938.

Nevertheless, the constant increase in number of admissions due to increased population is taxing the accommodation to such a degree that during one month last year 84 per cent of the accommodation was in use. This does not permit a sufficient margin for emergency, and having this problem in mind, the directors are anxious to see the new wing completed to meet these needs, and also those needs that ultimately will be placed upon the institution by the hospitalization of repatriated war casualties.

The canvass for funds with which to complete the wing is now being made among private citizens, and, starting July 7, the public will be asked to subscribe to the remainder. The support of every person who is able to give is sought so that the Royal Jubilee Hospital will be prepared to meet all emergencies.

The Victoria Japanese Association today handed Mayor Andrew McGavin a cheque for $69.75, to be forwarded to the Minister of National Defence at Ottawa to assist Canada in its war effort.

"We hope that this little 'bit' will be of some use in furthering Canadian principles and ideals," the letter said.

It was signed by Togo Takahashi, president of the association.

PAINT COMPANY WINS JUDGMENT

Judge H. H. Shandley, in County Court today, awarded judgment to the Paint Supply Co. Ltd. in its claim for $546.93 against John Barrett, painter, on an account for materials supplied him by the company over a period of years.

Officials of the company testified to dealings with Mr. Barrett, stating that when the latter's account had passed $500 they had instructed him to carry on further purchases on a cash basis, paying sums on his old account as he was able.

Barrett, on the stand, stated he had complained the account was incorrect. He told the court he did not owe the company any money, but admitted assigning cheques to the firm for jobs, supplies for which were less than the cheques he turned over.

Alan Baker appeared for the plaintiff company and P. J. Sinnott for the defendant.

Party to Decide Conscription Stand

VANCOUVER — The stand of the Conservative Party on the conscription question is "much too serious" for R. L. Maitland, K.C., British Columbia Conservative Party leader, to answer for on behalf of his party.

Mr. Maitland declined comment when he learned Premier Pattullo's declaration for conscription for Canadian service.

Mr. Maitland declared the situation was critical and should be given the earliest consideration, irrespective of party politics.

JAPANESE CONSUL MAKES PROTEST

VANCOUVER — Official Japanese protest has been made to Victoria, Ottawa and the city council against Alderman H. D. Wilson's anti-Oriental penetration campaign, it was disclosed Monday.

Protest letters were sent by Kenji Nakauchi, Japanese consul in Vancouver. They went to Premier Pattullo and through the Japanese Legation at Ottawa to the federal government.

Monday a similar letter from the consul, received by Mayor J. Lyle Telford, sent the city council into a private huddle in the mahogany room at city hall.

It is understood the consul had been notified from Ottawa the matter was one for the city council to deal with.

It was noted that while council was in formal session in the chamber the debates were listened to by a large number of Japanese, who appeared to follow the proceedings closely.

Canadians Disappointed

Soldiers Leave France Without Firing Shot

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND (CP) — Canada's active service force, after months of preparation and training, finally got to France last week primed for front-line action, but, it was disclosed, had to turn around immediately and return to England without having seen a German or fired a shot.

The vanguard of the First Division is back with a dramatic story. Part of the detachment, comprising the headquarters staff of the 1st Canadian Infantry Brigade and the 48th Highlanders escaped the German encircling move by a margin of only two hours.

Led by Maj.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, the division moved toward France a week ago today. For days and nights long columns of motor transports rumbled to the port of embarkation. Escorted by British and French naval forces, the leading transports carried the first brigade, some advance units, vehicles, ammunition and supplies, reaching port last Thursday night.

Troopships crowded with more Canadians expecting to come to grips with the Germans rode at anchor in a southcoast harbor, while still other units streamed hourly into the assembly area.

Then suddenly came the news the "show" had been called off. The men didn't know then why the change had been made. Now they know.

Meanwhile the Canadian advance guard had moved on towards its zone of concentration in France, and had reached Sable, near Tours. They hadn't the faintest idea of how tight the German ring was being drawn.

DESERTED YARDS

Their train glided quietly into the yards in the early hours of Friday. No person was in sight. The French engineer sounded a few blasts of the locomotive whistle but there was no response.

Brig. A. A. Smith of Winona, Ont., at the head of the 1st Infantry Brigade, and Lt.-Col. E. W. Haldenby, M.C., of Toronto, head of the 48th Highlanders, started off to investigate. They met a man who identified himself as a British military transport officer. He told them the Germans had broken through the French defences and that they were at that very moment advancing on Sable.

"Get your men out of here as quickly as you can," he advised, and then vanished into the darkness.

The Canadian officers were dumbfounded. They tried to find their informant again, but failed. Inquiries elsewhere, however, convinced them their plight was serious.

Orders were given to the train crew to prepare to return but the crew declined to move without word from the stationmaster, who could not be found. Furthermore, they said there wasn't enough steam in the boiler. And they added: "Besides, the war is over."

Finally a firing crew was made up of soldiers and the engineer, upon being given a carton of cigarettes and a bottle of wine, agreed to take his place at the throttle.

When the train reached port, a different port to the one they started for, the Canadians found that none of the British or French officials there had been expecting them. Luck was with the Canadians, however, for a fast cross-channel ferry was tied up at the dock.

Within 15 minutes the Canadians were aboard and on their way back to England, more than 2,000 men cramming into quarters normally accommodating only 800.

They received a welcoming roar of cheers upon their return to England, despite the fact they had seen no action.

MEXICAN SCENE IN DANCE REVUE

Olvera Street, which has faithfully restored in Los Angeles the life and relics of the first settlers in California, is the inspiration for one of the picturesque ballets of the dance revue of the Florence Clough Dance Academy to be given at the Royal Theatre on Friday, June 21. In this street, scene of one of the first pueblos in California, lives again all "the charm and beauty of the Mexican people, spun in the gold of romance and contentment," says Christine Sterling, whose love and appreciation of the Mexicans brought about the restoration of this beautiful street to perpetuate the early life of California.

In this gay and colorful scene, with graceful pepper and olive trees, under bright canopies, the wares of old Mexico are sold. This provides the setting for the vivid, flashing dances, sparkling castanets and lovely music of Chabrier's "Espana Rhapsodie" to which has been arranged the "Olvera Street Ballet," which should be popularly acclaimed on its presentation Friday night.

EDDIE CANTOR IN HUMAN ROLE

Eddie Cantor proved today at the Dominion Theatre, where he opened in "The Story of Forty Little Mothers," that he doesn't need a chorus of beautiful girls to entertain his public. Playing a real human being without pulling one gag and singing only one song, the lilting lullaby "Little Curly Hair in a High Chair," Eddie scores a distinct personal triumph as an actor.

The story blends comedy, pathos and, at times, real drama. Cantor displays a side of his histrionics that he has been hiding from his public. Another pleasant surprise is the presence of Judith Anderson, noted Broadway star, in the cast. She plays the school mistress and gives a very convincing performance in an unsympathetic part.

Dominion Books Intrigue Story

One of the most timely and intriguing spy stories ever filmed, Edgar Wallace's sensational "Four Just Men," comes to the Dominion on Friday for a three-day engagement. The picture unfolds the thrilling adventures of four men whose mission in life is to right the wrongs of the world. Feared, respected, admired and unknown, these four patriots set out to save the very soul of their nation, and in doing so provide one of the finest examples of British motion picture entertainment to reach Victoria in a long time.

Members of the cast, recruited from the British stage include Frank Lawton, Anna Lee and Griffith Jones.

On the same bill will be shown the comedy feature "The Honeymoon Is Over," with Stuart Erwin and Marjorie Weaver.

Mae West Sings In Newest Picture

Since her very first picture, Mae West has followed a custom of introducing at least one new song in each of her films. And her present Universal picture, "My Little Chickadee," which comes to the Atlas Theatre tomorrow, is no exception.

In this production, Mae sings "Willie of the Valley," written especially for her by Milton Drake and Ben Oakland.

The song tells the story of Willie, a gold miner who is pursued by many a maid because of his fortune and his gold teeth. Gene Austin and Candy and Coco accompany the star for this number.

Miss West is starred with W. C. Fields in "My Little Chickadee."

CAPITOL THEATRE

Will Fyffe has a grand role in the new naval picture, "For Freedom," now showing at the Capitol Theatre. Will has been provided with just the right blend of humor and drama that he knows full well how to handle, that of a newsreel chief. Acting honors also must be conceded to Captain Dove, who gives an excellent performance depicting what actually occurred when his ship was boarded. The officers and men of H.M.S. Ajax and Exeter are also in the picture. The rescue from the Altmark and the naval battle with the Graf Spee are thrilling incidents.

PLAZA THEATRE

"Dodsworth," Sinclair Lewis' popular novel, has been adapted to the screen and is now showing at the Plaza Theatre, with Ruth Chatterton and Walter Huston in the main roles.

"Woman Chases Man" is the second feature, with Miriam Hopkins playing opposite Joel McCrea.

OAK BAY THEATRE

James Stewart, who co-stars with Marlene Dietrich in Universal's "Destry Rides Again," now playing at the Oak Bay Theatre, is the screen's tallest star. He's six feet four.

RIO THEATRE

A thrilling film of a siege of a consulate by Chinese bandits is at the Rio Theatre in 20th Century-Fox's "Barricade." Alice Faye and Warner Baxter are starred.

Canada to Admit Tourists Freely

OTTAWA (CP) — Possibility was seen today in the statement of Finance Minister Ralston that Canada might not take "reciprocal" action in connection with the United States regulation requiring Canadians traveling in the United States to have passports after July 1.

The minister, launching a tourist drive sponsored by the young men's section of the Winnipeg Board of Trade, invited American tourists to come "as freely and as fully" as they did in the days of peace.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King, speaking in the House of Commons the day after the U.S. government announced the new regulation recently, said the government might effect "something in the nature of reciprocity" in the matter.

He said conferences between Canadian and U.S. governments would be held on different questions as they arose.

According to U.S. legation officials here every Canadian, regardless of age, would require a passport to enter the United States after June 30. Photographs of each individual will be required on the passport. The U.S. legation here and other U.S. consular officials in Canada will issue a visa free.

However, Canadians traveling on established transportation systems from Canada through the United States to other parts of the Dominion will not require passports. This applies to established railways, bus or air transportation systems. Travelers in automobiles, however, will require passports.

Canadian passport officials expect an increase in the issuance of passports due to the U.S. regulation. A passport costs $5 and is good for five years. At the end of that time it can be renewed for another five years on payment of $2.

Naval Appointment

OTTAWA (CP)—Commander Eustace Brock, Royal Canadian Naval Volunteer Reserve, Winnipeg, has been appointed to the Admiralty in London as liaison officer with members of the R.C.N.V.R. now serving with units of the Royal Navy, the Defence Department announced.

Since coming to Ottawa from Winnipeg at the outbreak of war, Commander Brock has been controller of naval information at naval service headquarters here. He will leave for his new post shortly.

During the first Great War he served in the Royal Navy and has been closely associated with the R.C.N.V.R. since its beginning in Canada in 1923. He organized the Winnipeg division of the unit.

The Ballard harbor patrol boat, by a quick manoeuvre saved the vessel from going completely over. The harbor patrolmen hastily made a hawser fast to a mast of the Dorothea, kept tension on it with the patrol boat and held the freighter steady while the heavy deck load of lumber was removed.

The announcement said that, "speaking to the officers and ships' companies, the First Lord expressed his pleasure and that of the Royal Navy in welcoming units of the Royal Canadian Navy to these shores."

2-point Rally Slips

NEW YORK (AP)—A stock market rally faltered today after gains running to 2 or more points had been posted for steels, rails, rubbers and an assortment of specialties.

The buying that appeared was based mainly on continuance of industrial hopes surrounding the fast-growing domestic armament program and augmented British purchases.

Dealings contracted to a mere dribble in the final hour and transfers for the full session approximated 700,000 shares.

Prominent on the upswing—some eventually slipped—were U.S. Steel, Bethlehem, Republic, Santa Fe, N.Y. Central, Southern Pacific, Great Northern, Goodyear, Sears-Roebuck, United Aircraft, American Telephone, Western Union, Kennecott, American Smelting, Allied Chemical and Loft.

Sluggish were Boeing, Douglas Aircraft, Glenn Martin, Standard Oil of N.J., Texas Corp. and Eastman Kodak.

Chrysler was resistant but General Motors was unable to get out in front. From Detroit it was learned the proposed new contract between "GM" and the unions would cost the company about $8,000,000 additional a year. Oils lagged.

Rail bonds were higher but recently strong German and Italian loans lost momentum. Commodities steadied.

Canadian issues were quiet. Canadian Pacific and Distillers Seagram, up a fraction, and Lake Shore down ⅝ were the only quoted stocks. In the bond market Canada 4s were up 1¾ points.

Wheat

WINNIPEG (CP)—Winnipeg grain traders marked time today awaiting developments in the international situation and wheat futures prices held steady. Quotations ranged fractionally above and below previous closing levels during the dull session and finished unchanged to ¼ higher, July at 71½, October 74½ and December 75¾.

Mill buying provided meagre support at times but outside liquidation discouraged a rise in the price trend.

Chicago values were nearly a half cent better than yesterday near the close. Buenos Aires was unchanged to fractionally higher in the forenoon.

Cash wheat trades showed interest in high-grade northerns, garnet and durum and substantial amounts changed hands at slightly better spreads.

Flax declined nine cents just before the close. Barley and rye were down about a cent while oats lost fractionally on scattered offerings.

CHICAGO (AP)—Wheat futures drifted aimlessly over a narrow range most of the session today in a light volume of trade. After opening as much as 1⅜ cents higher, profit-taking turned prices lower and after the first half-hour wheat dropped back to about ¼ cent above yesterday's closing levels.

Just before the close the market again turned slightly higher but most traders turned cautious.
